MRS. VANCE IS BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Two Witnesses Heard at Preliminary Hearing of Marion Murder Case.

Mrs. Gladys Davis Vance, 39, was bound over to the grand jury on a charge of first degree murder by Judge W. Dexter Bryan at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing which lasted about an hour in municipal court yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Vance is charged with murder in the death of her husband, Harley L. Vance, principal of Glenwood elementary school. Mr. Vance died on June 6, 24 hours after he was severely burned in a mysterious early-morning explosion at the Vance home at 515 North State street.

While it was originally expected that yesterday's hearing would bring out the background of the case, nothing was presented to indicate the cause for the tragedy. Mrs. Vance, expected by many persons to take the stand yesterday, did not appear for questioning.

She has remained silent as to particulars of domestic differences between her husband and herself in City hospital immediately after the explosion she admitted to police shooting herself but denied any knowledge of a garden hose through which gas fumes were piped from a kitchen gas nozzle to Mr. Vance's room.

Two Witnesses Heard

In yesterday's hearing Prosecutor James E. Reed, who is in charge of the state's case against Mrs. Vance, called only two witnesses. They were City Fireman John F. Cocherl of 523 North Prospect street and Police Captain E. C. Mackan of 344 North State street. Cocherl, driver of the fire chief's car, was one of the firemen on duty the morning of the explosion. Capt. Mackan was not on duty at the time but continued an investigation started by Capt. Ora DeWees.

Harry L. Dowler and J. Malcolm Strelitz of the law firm of Strelitz, Dowler & Wiedemann, attorneys for the defendant, cross-examined only Captain Mackan.

Between 40 and 50 spectators, mostly women, jammed into the rear of the small courtroom to see the proceedings. An additional 25 or 30 stood in the corridor. Among the spectators were Edgar A. Vance of 671 Mary street and Claire Vance of 564 Oak street, father and brother, respectively, of the explosion victim.

Hearing Delayed

The hearing was scheduled to get under way at 1 p. m., but the starting was delayed about 20 minutes until the arrival of Mrs. Vance. She was brought to court in a sheriff's car driven by Deputy Sheriff Leroy Retterer. At her side was a sister, Margaret Davis of Oak Hill, who has been with Mrs. Vance.

She entered the city building from a door on Orchard street and calmly walked to the entrance to the courtroom. She appeared slightly startled to see the large number of spectators, but after pausing for a second took a seat at the counsel table in the courtroom.

A few seconds before Judge Bryan appeared in the courtroom Mrs. Vance wept slightly. After drying her eyes she remained calm and attentive throughout the hearing.

Fireman Testifies

The defense waived the reading of the charge and the state called its first witness, Mr. Cocherl. He took the witness' seat, administered by F. H. Leonard, court baliff.

Prosecutor Reed's opening questions was, "Did you answer a call to 515 North State street on the morning of June 6?"

Cocherl replied, "I did."

Q—How was the alarm placed and by what circumstances were you informed?

A—Two ways. Through the fire system and also through the telephone system. No. 3 station (North Street station) informed me over the speaker system that they were answering a call to 515 North State street address.

Q—Who accompanied you?

A—My squad truck and the police department.

Q—Upon arriving at the North State street home what did you observe?

A—I pulled up in front of the house. No. 3 had started to the rear. I ran across the lawn and into the house to the rear. I had. I went upstairs and found most of the flames in the bedroom.

Q—Was the front door open?

A—The door was open but the screen was shut.

Q—Did Prosecutor Reed ask you to describe the floor plan as you remembered it.

JAPS REPORT KURILE ATTACK

Tokyo Declares U. S. Bombers Blast Base and Other Raids Are Expected.

By The Associated Press

American planes this morning attacked the "northern section" of the Kurile island chain some 1,200 miles northeast of Tokyo, the Japanese radio reported, warning that "further appearances of enemy planes from the north are to be expected."

Five Liberators and three Flying Fortresses staged the new raid from Aleutian bases, Tokyo said, interpreting it is stemming from "positive measures" by the U. S. to "raid our mainland, Japan, from the north."

The broadcast was recorded by the federal communications commission.

U. S. bombers raided Paramushru in the northern Kuriles in a 1,530-mile round trip from Attu on July 20.

On New Georgia island in the Solomons, U. S. army and Marine forces pressed slowly and steadily in against Bairoko harbor over difficult terrain and fierce Japanese resistance.

The latest communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported a 1,500-ton ship was sunk and two others were damaged in Liberator raids on convoys near New Ireland, and said that 18 barges were sunk in the area of Salamaua on New Guinea island.

Suffering from serious sea losses, the Japanese were reported using barges and small convoys to supply their island bases. Such ship movements can be made swiftly at night and are more difficult to hit.

Shop Corps Hears War Heroes

Two Wounded Soldiers from Guadalcanal on Defiance Pressed Steel Program; Company President Speaks.

Appeals to make every moment of war production work as effective as possible were sounded by speakers at a patriotic rally yesterday afternoon for employes of the Defiance Press Steel Co.

Heading the speakers were two Olney, Ill., soldiers wounded at Guadalcanal who told about some of the hardships endured by U. S. fighting men there.

They were Pfc. Donald R. Wilson and Pfc. Richard Leaf, who made a double-barreled appeal for more munitions and more blood plasma. Pfc. Leaf, carried through swamps so deep he had to sit up on the stretcher to avoid being drowned, told how he was taken to a field hospital and given blood plasma that he credits with saving his life and the lives of 10 fellow soldiers.

Life at Guadalcanal

Pfc. Wilson described Guadalcanal fighting methods, of spending nights in water-filled foxholes while swarms of mosquitoes, artillery barrages and Japs prowling in the darkness made sleep almost impossible. He said his two weeks in the front lines at Guadalcanal before a wound sent him back to a hospital included about two hours of sleep out of every 24, and that he had his shoes off once during that two-week period—long enough to put on a fresh pair of socks.

In urging the workers to do everything possible to boost production of the 20 millimeter steel shell castings made in the Defiance plant, he declared, "An army without arms soon would mean a civilian population in chains—it's as simple as that."

Both soldier speakers were introduced by Capt. Glen Adcox of the Cleveland field office of the industrial service division of the war department. He declared the company's product was vital to the air forces and that the job workers are doing in the factories are just as important as those being done on the battlefields, even though home-front jobs are much more lucrative and less hazardous.

Heavy Casualties

He declared that two-thirds of the men in Pfc. Leaf's division were casualties and that 65 per cent of those in Pfc. Wilson's division were killed—emphasizing the need for all-out production at home to do everything possible to help fortify U. S. fighting men against front-line hazards.

He also said the high command is worried by the apparently growing belief among civilians that the war may end yet this year. Declaring that only in "invading and holding" Europe can that phase of the conflict be ended, he said the high command is planning far ahead of this year and that there must be no letup in the output of war plants.

C. M. Vrooman of Cleveland, president of the company, recalling that the Defiance plant had only a handful of employes a year ago, declared several hundred are now working on a product vitally needed in the war, and he urged the workers to seek to double and treble the plant's output.

Others Introduced

Other persons introduced during the brief program on a grassy plot near the company's plant included Capt. Prue of the Cleveland ordnance district, Howard Guthery, secretary; C. W. Mellette, production superintendent; Herb Smith, treasurer and general manager; H. E. Webster, personnel manager; Jack Waring, resident government inspector; Charles Noble of the Cleveland ordnance district.

The program was preceded by a group of numbers by the Harding High school band under direction of Homer E. Huffman.

GERMANS REPORTED EVACUATING SICILY

By The Associated Press

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IN SICILY, Aug. 12 — German evacuation of troops and equipment from Sicily to the Italian mainland was reported to be in full swing today with at least 80 vessels plying night and day across the Messina strait under a record umbrella of anti-aircraft fire which was growing steadily in intensity.

Strong German rear guards, well entrenched with mortars, machineguns and artillery, and extensive road demolitions continued to make progress slow for the allied armies converging on Messina and the evacuation beaches while the bulk of the German troops were being withdrawn.

Determined to save all possible equipment, the German command was reported to have decreed that "the passport to Italy is a gun," meaning that troops must bring their weapons along if they want places on the boats at Messina.

37th Division Meets Enemy in Battle for Munda Airbase

Troops from Marion and Surrounding Counties in Unit Made Up Principally of Ohioans.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12—The military secrecy which has veiled operations of the 37th Division, composed principally of Ohioans, was lifted for the first time last night when it was disclosed elements of the outfit aided in the capture of the Japanese airbase at Munda.

An announcement from a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur revealed that units of the 37th 25th and 43rd Infantry divisions and the Marines participated in the Munda battle.

It also was the first word Ohioans had received that parts of the 37th had engaged the enemy in action.

The division commanded by Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler was federalized in the fall of 1940 trained at Camp Shelby, Miss., and learned jungle warfare methods in the Louisiana swamps on maneuvers two years ago.

It was after those maneuvers that General Beightler paid the Ohio boys this tribute:

"I'm satisfied that as long as the security of our nation rests in the hands of men like those of the 37th division, we shall have nothing to fear.

"The thing that struck my attention most strongly was the fact that when the going was toughest and when, if ever, men have reason to complain, our Ohio soldiers adopted an attitude of tolerance and good humor that is to their everlasting credit."

At the close of the Munda operation and after all but scattered

CHURCHILL AND ROOSEVELT IN PARLEYS SOON

British Prime Minister Leaves Quebec for Unannounced Destination.

By The Associated Press

QUEBEC, Aug. 12—A tapering off of allied war planning became apparent here today but with every indication it would reach a new and sustained peak when President Roosevelt confers with Prime Minister Churchill of England.

Churchill himself was absent from the city. It was announced last night in Montreal that he and his party had passed through there in a six-car special train enroute to an unannounced destination

Discuss British Problems

The discussions which began here Tuesday between Churchill and Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King of Canada and their chiefs of staff naturally have been directed toward problems and war strategy of interest primarily to their own countries.

Not until Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill sit down at a conference table are the consultations expected to get around to the point of final determinations of the next steps toward victory to be taken by all the English-speaking allies.

The tapering off in Anglo-Canadian discussions also began yesterday. Under the direction of Churchill and MacKenzie King, the first joint session ever held by the British war cabinet and the war committee of the Canadian cabinet took place at the Chateau Frontenac.

Bow to Protocol

But later in the day, although British and Canadian chiefs of staff continued win-the-war talks at the Chateau, the two prime ministers set out on a round of official calls whose greatest importance lay in adhering to the niceties of protocol.

The impending Roosevelt-Churchill conferences which may chart the allied invasion routed into the European continent may be expected to extend over several days, as have their five meetings in the past.

The real results of the discussions probably will become known only when new sledgehammer blows are swung at the enemy on the world's battlefronts.

U. S. Fortresses Attack Bonn and Other Rhineland Cities

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 12 — American Flying Fortresses attacked Gelsenkirchen-Wessling and Bonn in Germany's Rhineland today and U. S. Army air force headquarters said 29 of the big four-engined bombers were lost in the three-way daylight assault.

The bombers said they shot down more than 20 enemy fighters, a communique said, and escorting Thunderbolts and Spitfires knocked down three others.

"Large formations" of Flying Fortresses attacked synthetic oil plant heavily bombed cities in factories at Gelsenkirchen and Wessling and struck at other industrial targets at Bonn, said the bulletin, issued jointly by the U. S. Army's European theater headquarters and the British air ministry.

Fires were left burning in all the target areas.

American, British, Dominion and allied fighters and fighter-bombers supported the operations.

Fighter resistance was reported strong over Gelsenkirchen and anti-aircraft fire was intense at all targets.

Gelsenkirchen raided numerous times by the RAF, is ten miles

Four hundred and twenty donors are needed for the next visit of the mobile unit, or 140 registrations for each day.

The mobile unit, as on previous visits, will be stationed at the Epworth Methodist church on East Center street where the life-saving activity will be carried on.

REDS FIGHTING NEAR KHARKOV

Soviet Forces Reported Battling in Suburbs of German Fortress City.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 12 — Hard-fighting Russian troops are hammering the suburbs of Kharkov after virtually encircling the besieged Germans in the fortress city, it was announced today, and the fall of the great Ukrainian stronghold appeared imminent.

The onrushing Red forces were less than seven and one-half miles from the city at the nearest point.

The German escape gap was narrowed to less than 60 miles when a Soviet column, in a brilliant wheeling movement southwest of the city toward the Dnieper river, cut the Kharkov-Poltava railway line at Vodyanaya, forty miles to the west.

(An Algiers broadcast recorded in London by Reuters said Russian troops were less than three miles from Kharkov, and that at some points "fighting was going on in the suburbs" of the city.)

Yesterday's thrust toward the Dnieper also threatened German forces in the Donets basin, where large units of the Nazis are deployed from 100 to 200 miles to the southeast. Carried further, the Soviet advance would cut in behind these forces to render their position untenable.

In frantic efforts to relieve Kharkov, the Nazis threw in several tank divisions, the Moscow communique said, but the Russians crushed through, capturing 50 populated places in a 12 mile drive. In the town of Akhtyrka, 42 miles south of Sumy, 1,600 Germans were killed, 36 tanks demolished and 200 trucks destroyed. Captured booty included nearly 200 trucks.

In the raging Russian-German battle on a 400-mile line from north of Smolensk to south of Kharkov, one column was less than 40 miles from Bryansk after capturing Alexeyevka in spite of heavy enemy resistance.

TRAP LARGE ENEMY FORCE IN QUICK MOVE

Yanks Establish Bridgehead After Repulsing German Counterattacks.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 12—A task force of American infantry again has landed from the sea behind German lines on the north coast of Sicily in an amphibious operation even more daring than the first and established a bridgehead east of Cape Orlando after cutting through powerful Nazi resistance.

The Yanks had to fight their way ashore to launch the assault at dawn Wednesday and were met immediately by strong German counterattacks, reports to headquarters said today.

American warships and swarms of fighter-bombers covered the landing, pouring a storm of shells, bombs and machine-gun fire into German detachments as they surged down the beach to give battle.

The surprise element which contributed to the success of the outflanking of the San Agata-Cesaro line from the sea at the week-end was lacking, but the Americans broke up the counterattacks, and a field dispatch said they had "successfully established a bridgehead."

Large Force Trapped

The action, near the mouth of the Naso river 40 miles due west of Messina, probably trapped large German forces within a 10-mile area between the main American army attacking frontally along the north coast and the landing party at the rear.

Elsewhere in the battle for Sicily steady allied advances were reported on all fronts and large-scale air attacks on the Italian mainland were resumed.

In the inland drive on Randazzo, the American Seventh army column was reported to have advanced half way along the road from Cesaro to that bitterly-defended German stronghold, with the Eighth army attacking northward in close cooperation.

The Germans were fighting a strong rear guard action on the east coast, but the British Eighth army driving northward toward Messina has captured a village south of Prajola and the village of Zafferana Etna, on the eastern slopes of Mt. Etna about five miles from fallen Guardia.

Rail Centers Bombed

Terni, railway communications center about 100 miles north of Rome, was attacked yesterday by heavy bombers from the northwest Africa command and bombs were reported to have struck in the railway yards and on industrial buildings.

Allied fighter-bombers, continuing their sweeps against axis shipping, sank four enemy vessels off the Sicilian coasts.

The communique said one allied plane was missing from the operations.

(The Italian communique as recorded by The Associated Press from a Rome broadcast said numerous buildings had been hit during the allied raid on Terni and that losses among the population were heavy.

(It also said an allied cruiser of 10,000 tons, another of 5,000 tons and three merchant ships were hit by axis torpedo planes.)

Although detachment of the American Seventh army and British Eighth army had advanced within a few miles of Randazzo, allied spokesmen warned that German remnants had dug into the

Yanks Make Second Landing Behind Lines in Three Days

By The Associated Press

WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH ARMY IN NORTHERN SICILY, Aug. 12 — American elements which landed behind the German lines by assault boats for the second time in three days fought through the night to establish contact with the main body of their forces in the vicinity of Cape Orlando.

(Later dispatches from allied headquarters in North Africa said that as far as was known there such contact had not yet been made.)

Infantry with supporting tanks swept ashore just before dawn yesterday, seized a number of German prisoners and had to beat off a series of three heavy counterattacks before their own troops, attacking from the west, were able to close the seven-mile gap between them, where German forces were pocketed by the hazardous amphibious landing.

"It was a good scrap and the fighting was heavy," said a staff officer.

The landing force, which was backed by supporting naval artillery of U. S. fleet vessels, met opposition soon after it landed and dug in. Allied air forces bombarded the German positions in a well-coordinated effort with the Navy to help them in every way.

The sound of battle was audible to the main troops fighting their way through coastal ridges to trap as many Germans as possible.

One of two Nazi attacks during the day was made in force with armor and the Yanks strained to the utmost to hold and try to enlarge the slender bridgehead under the weight of German tank, mortar, artillery and small arms fire. Finally they smashed back the enemy armored thrust with anti-tank guns.

When the third and heaviest German attack came about 6 p. m. —just before dusk, the Nazis' favorite time to counterattack— the Americans, charging desperately forward to close the trap on the Germans and at the same time reach their own troops, took a small inland village

MISSOURI REJECTS U. S. PENSION FUNDS

By The Associated Press

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 12 —The Republican controlled Missouri house of representatives—backing a member's shout of "tell the federal government to take their money and go to hell"—defeated a bill to provide an additional $750,000 to administer the state's $89,000,000 social security program.

Republican Gov. Forrest C. Donnell had asked the addition to $4,460,000 already appropriated after federal officials suggested the federal matching dollars would be shut off if the state didn't administer the law properly.

Deafening choruses of nays greeted amendments which would have sliced the sum to as low as $340,000. The rejection of the entire appropriation was by a 62 to 60 vote.

Rep. Morris Osburn, Democrat, leading the fight for the fund, said the state social security director "told us he can't administer this law unless we give him an additional $750,000."

"The federal government is always holding a dictator's club over our heads and saying 'if you don't do this or don't do that we're going to give you a sound spanking and take your candy away'," Rep. Ralph Erdwin, Republican, replied. "I say we ought to raise the sales tax to three per cent (it is now two per cent) earmark a penny of that for pensions and tell the federal government to take their money and go to hell."

PAY-GO TAX NO BRAKE ON WAR BOND SALES

July Sales $5,000 Above June Total, Committee Reports.

Despite the start of the pay-as-you-go income tax plan in July, sales of war bonds in Marion county during the month totaled $316,000, or $5,000 more than during the previous month, the Marion County War Finance committee reported today. Of this total $244,000 was in series "E" bonds and the remaining $72,000 was in series "F" and "G" bonds.

Feature of last month's bond and stamp sales activities was the month-long nationwide drive to raise $130,000,000 for the purchase of the aircraft carrier Shangri-La. Marion county's share in the national drive was $33,000. This figure was topped $9,797, there being $42,797 worth of sales credited to the drive during the month. Highlight of the drive was the bond and stamp auction conducted at the courthouse near the end of the month. The sale of $16,433 worth of bonds and stamps was promoted through the auction.

Flying Nun Hails Air Age

SISTER MARY AQUINAS explains model plane to class.

By MARGARET KERNODLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON—If you want to keep your children at home and happy, if you want them to be good citizens, then let them at those model airplanes they love to build. That's the advice of the flying nun, Sister Mary Aquinas, who is spending this hot summer teaching teachers how to teach aviation to thousands of boys and girls this fall.

"Making model airplanes is the first thing to come along in my time to develop student leadership and keep children at home," says this merry middle-aged nun, a teacher in a Michigan parochial school.

As she pointed out a model glider, the first work of a nun who had never before seen a model airplane kit, the ruddy-faced flier chuckled. "American boys and girls don't expect a lot of knowledge from their teacher. They want an understanding attitude."

This teacher really has this attitude. It was so hot my cotton blouse stuck to the chair, but her students—two-thirds priests and nuns and the rest other public school teachers—stayed to talk shop after class.

Club Organized

Sister Aquinas was whiling away toward a major in physics at Notre Dame on a teaching fellowship two summers ago. Her students demanded aviation classes, but she organized a club instead until she could learn enough aviation to understand as much as her pupils.

South Bend, Ind., airport officials advised her the quickest way to learn aviation was to learn to fly. The next summer, while teaching at Manitowoc, Wis., she took dual lessons with Sister Marie Paul. She added up ten and a half hours for a student license. Twelve of her students learned to fly, too. Returning to Michigan, she sponsored model plane contests and had even fifth grade pupils perching on windowsills to drink in flying talk. This summer she is teaching at Catholic university.

"Flying's really very simple," declares the flying nun. "I wouldn't be afraid to take a plane up alone tomorrow—but I'd rather brush up on patterns and stuff."

She teaches structure, afrodynamics, engine assembly, meteorology, navigation, radio communication and air conditioning (warming up, not cooling off, she laughed).

Here's the air-age curriculum she outlines for boys and girls this coming season:

Grades one to four: Plane identification via stories in reading, writing and 'rithmetic. History of aviation through supplementary reading.

Grades five to eight: Geography revitalized in regular study, plus reading lists and an infiltration of simple problems into the arithmetic schedule.

Grades nine through ten: General science, algebra and geometry taking the air. Special social studies, including air age economics and geography.

Junior-senior years: Regular pre-flight course (the kind given [illegible]

To Save Rubber

Beginning at once, all Army rubber footwear procured by the Quartermaster corps will be manufactured with 30 per cent less crude rubber, the war department reports. Buna-S, the new government type of all purpose synthetic rubber will be substituted for the crude rubber.

The saving of crude rubber resulting from the substitution of Buna-S in the manufacture of overshoes, sheepskin jungle boots, waders and other types of rubber footwear is expected to exceed 70,000 pounds the first month and to increase in each succeeding month. Products manufactured from the new synthetic appear and wear exactly the same as those manufactured from crude rubber.

Enemy Line Cracks at Troina

Associated Press War Reporter Describes Battle of Americans on Sicily Hillside.

By DON WHITEHEAD
AP War Correspondent

WITH THE AEF AT TROINA, Aug. 6—(Delayed)—It was dusk when we reached the top of the ridge and found the battalion's advance command post preparing for the final American drive to break enemy's strong positions before Troina.

One attack from the northwest had failed to shake the enemy loose from its hold on the strategic crossroads city, and now a pincer movement was underway to envelop him and smash his pockets of resistance on the ridges and in the valleys before us.

This battalion, under Major Charles (Chuck) Horner of Doylestown, Pa., was to drive straight for Troina. Another was swinging in from our right and a third from the left to cut roads leading out of the city to east. This was Aug. 4.

For four days more than 200 guns have been shelling the enemy positions in a thunderous barrage that never seemed to stop—fire followed by infantry thrusts to dislodge Germans from dugouts, caves and gullies pitting the countryside west of Troina. Tonight there is another attack while the city still smokes from divebombers. Our troops are attacking a ridge opposite our command post.

A battalion led by Lt. Col. John Mathews, Bridgeport, Conn., had taken the ridge in a morning attack.

"When I came up during the night," Mathews said, "they were looking right down on us with machine guns. They drove us back and we had to flank their positions to drive them off."

Break Enemy Defenses

Capt. John Finke of Saginaw, Mich., led one company into attack on the right flank. That was a vicious battle. Finke's company suffered some casualties, but disorganized the enemy's defenses and made the job of taking the ridge easier.

The command post was in a road culvert where Mathews and Horner kept in touch with their companies by radio and telephone.

Lt. Melvin Groves of Lawrence, Kan., joined the group, grunting as he sat down.

"What's the matter?" someone asked.

"Hell, I went through all that shooting this morning and then sprained my back in a fall," Groves said.

"How are things going?"

"The dirty bastards won't let me get our wounded off the field," Groves said. "If you go out after the wounded they shoot at you. If a wounded man wiggles they shoot him again."

Up the hill came a pack train of mules carrying ammunition, food and water. The army requisitioned the long-eared transports from Sicilian farmers to carry supplies up ridges where jeeps are unable to travel.

Sicily Mules Smart

"These are smart mules," Groves said. "On that last ridge we were bringing up mortar ammunition when a mortar shell burst nearby. One of the mules fell down. We thought he was killed, but pretty soon we went back and found him grazing on the hillside. That mule just naturally took cover whenever there was a shell blast near him."

We ate a cold supper from ... [illegible] ... Lieut. Everett North of East Chicago.

... [illegible] ... Germans, dentists fell to heavy mortar and machine gun fire, were running ... lines, hands in the air. A Negro came dashing across the field, shouting surrender. Then the Yanks who had been pinned down by machine gun fire during the night advanced to the ridgetop and engaged a pocket of the enemy on the other side. His defenses are beginning to crack.

It was a hot day, and overhead a formation of American bombers flew on a mission behind the enemy lines. It was the beginning of an all-day series of bombers.

2 Air Force Inspectors Suspended After Crash

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—Two air force inspectors have been suspended and 100 gliders grounded in the St. Louis area as an outcome of the glider crash which killed 10 persons Aug. 1.

The war department said yesterday a faulty strut caused the crash. Blaming a sub-contractor, the department halted use of craft which might contain fittings from the same manufacturing parts.

There was no evidence of sabotage, the department said. Further inquiry was ordered to determine if disciplinary action should be invoked against USAAF Inspector Charles L. Latty and William A. Williams.

Living Costs Decline in June and Early July

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 — Cheaper prices at butcher shops and grocery counters brought the cost of city living down in late June and early July for the first time of any consequence since Pearl Harbor was bombed.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins announced retail food prices declined 2 per cent from mid-June to mid-July—enough of a drop to bring the cost of living down 0.6 per cent despite rises in clothing and other items.

Two-fifths of the cost of living in cities were for food.

The bureau of labor statistics index showed the cost of living on July 15 was 25 per cent above January, 1941, and 5 per cent above last September.

Clothing increased 0.5 per cent during June, miscellaneous services rose 0.2 per cent and medical expenses, laundry, beauty and barber shop prices were "somewhat higher."

American hospital facilities grew in 1942 at the rate of a 163-bed hospital for every day in the year.

Heroines in War Win Medals

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON from the United Nations War Front in Europe: World War II has brought women the same medals for valor and bravery awarded to men.

Yekaterina Tkachenko, a 21-year-old Russian, received the Soviet medal "For Valor" in recognition of her scout work behind enemy lines. When she discovered the Germans were preparing to send a detachment against Russian guerrillas, she trudged across difficult mountain country and warned the guerrillas in time. The Germans were repulsed in a fight for which Yekaterina acted as intelligence officer.

Sima Dneprovskaya, a sapper scout, bettered Yekaterina's medal record by winning two decorations for valor. She was active in capturing an enemy blockhouse, machine gun and valuable military papers on the Leningrad front.

SIMA DNEPROVSKAYA

Eight Czechoslovakian women soldiers won top-flight medals from the Soviets for the fight they made beside their men on the eastern front. Two of the Czech women received the "Red Star" and the other six the "Medal for Bravery."

Add to that record the decorations bestowed on British women. The Auxiliary Territorial Service received 24 awards for gallantry. The Women's Auxiliary Air Force got 32 decorations for bravery and the Women's Royal Naval Service cracked up 10 service awards.

Five young Yugoslav nurses, serving with guerrilla bands around Kurjani, have received applause from their countrymen for the independent action they took to save guerrillas' lives after a recent battle. When the blood supply in their temporary field hospital ran low, three of the nurses crawled a mile through mud, past the enemy's forward gun emplacements. There they surprised three Nazis into surrender. With the three live Germans, they returned the way they had come. And within a few hours German blood was coursing through the veins of wounded Yugoslavs.

Ohioans To Eat Turkey Next Thanksgiving Day

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug 12—Ohioans will eat turkey as usual next Thanksgiving.

Everett L. Dakan, chairman of the poultry husbandry department at Ohio State university, said an order reserving the August-September turkey crop for shipment to the armed forces overseas would not affect Ohio birds since they are late in maturing.

An expected increase in the November crop will offset military demands within the United States and at the same time provide sufficient turkeys for civilian consumption, he added.

Ohio turkey production was estimated for 1943, compared with 896,000 last year, Dakan said.

The plan was offered by Ohio's health director, Dr. R. H. Markwith, as a substitute to a general proposal opposed by the Ohio State Medical association on the grounds it would not permit servicemen's wives to choose their own physicians in some instances.

The Veil Is Stripped from the Red Army

The Red army, by autumn, 1941, included a collection of armaments in the sixties. The guns, armies were smaller than American or British, corresponding roughly to what we call army corps.

The army occupied a vast territory, set apart from its own, set apart from the actual front lines in fact to the points where it began. That enemy the Russians called "The Land" was populated by million men, forming million men, forming fighting force. For each two more were waiting in his place, on the basis of mobilization potential million men, one-entire population.

This land was also inhabited by strange outdoor men who called Yak," "Mig" and by growling land monsters named "KV," and most of all by a fire-breathing girl, affectionately known throughout Russia either as "Katiusha" or as "Maria Ivanovna."

It was a land of mystery which few, if any, foreign eyes did ever beheld. So secret was all pertaining to the Red army, before the war, that I knew of a foreign military attache who tried for months to determine a single fact—the base pay of Red army privates—a fact known to millions of Russians—and he could not find it.

As the war progressed, it gradually stripped the veil from the Red army. The military attache discovered that the private's base (officially, two dollars), plus food, pay was 10.50 rubles a month tobacco, and clothing, issued to him free, as his own personal property. Dispatches described publicly some of the Red army's operations. Correspondents learned something of its make-up in trips to military establishments and interviews with officers. The more the Germans learned the hard way, leaning out the information at the cost of their lives, the more the Soviet authorities permitted the rest of the world to know of the Red army.

IT TURNED out to be a highly developed machine, not differing in many respects from the regular armies of other great powers, and most amazing for its modernity, efficiency and strength.

Its infantry was organized in triangular formations, later adopted by the United States, with three smaller units going into the next larger unit, such as three regiments to a division. Each infantryman carried what he called a "Vintovka," the Mosin rifle, designed in 1894 and modernized in 1935 of 7.62 millimeters, the same caliber as the American army rifle. On this, he carried a "Shtik," a triangular-bladed bayonet, balanced so that the rifle could be fired accurately with the bayonet always in place.

The artillery was built around the basic 76-millimeter field gun, slightly larger than the celebrated French "75." A 45-millimeter gun was also used as a field or anti-tank gun, while a 122-millimeter gun-howitzer, and a 152-millimeter howitzer, hurling an 88-pound shell for eleven miles, did the heavy work.

The tanks, which had been the subject of bizarre legends, making them out to be huge 90-ton monsters, capable of swimming under water or being dropped from the air, proved to be quite conservative, and very effective. The "KV," named after Klementy Voroshilov, which was put on display for correspondents, weighed 46 tons. It carried one 76-millimeter gun, three 7.62 millimeter machine guns, and one anti-aircraft machine gun, the light, 7.62 millimeter "Degtiarov" model. The Red army also had its heavy "Maxim" machine gun. The "KV" was powered by a 12-cylinder, 600 horsepower diesel engine, developing a maximum speed of twenty-five miles an hour, and protected by armor capable of resisting a 75-caliber shell, although sometimes pierced by the German 38-millimeter anti-tank gun. The "KV" had two smaller brothers, a 27-ton "T-34" and a 6-ton "T-60."

THE planes were led by the "YAK," a light, fast fighter designed by Alexander Yakovlev, and the "Il," an armored, low-level "Sturmovik," or attack bomber, designed by Sergei Ilyushin. Two other fighters, the "MIG" and the "LAGG," older but still serviceable, were in operation, together with a whole fleet of auxiliary craft, ranging from the Douglas, built after the American model, to the U-2, an antique little wood-and-fabric biplane which was still useful for training, communications, observation, and sometimes even for stealthy night glider bombing, at low altitude and with high precision, on crowded battlefields like the one which was to develop at Stalingrad.

Of all these arms, the Red army found itself outdistanced by the Germans only in numbers of tanks and planes, and in both quantity and quality of mortars. The Germans had concentrated on mortars at the expense of their light artillery, while the Russians had neglected mass development of mortars in favor of guns. This error they rapidly repaired. A people's commissariat for mortar manufacture was established, hundreds of factories were turned over to it, and soon, 50, 82, and 120-millimeter mortars took their place in the Red army's armament.

All this, the Germans learned, to their displeasure, and we, to our pleasure.

One mystery we did not solve—the mystery of "Katiusha." Her story was one of the most intriguing of the war, the story of a secret weapon, the kind that always catches the imagination of all peoples.

Katiusha came on the scene at the very start of the war, when stories were whispered, from mouth to ear, of her marvelous prowess: she was the latest and best weapon of the Red army, she cast a death ray, or she belched forth flames, or she hurled multiple-explosives. Her effect was so devastating that, wherever she struck, no living thing survived for feet or yards or miles around. So frightening was her aspect that, upon her very appearance, the enemy fled in panic. So secret were her operations that, personally escorted by NKVD men, she drove to the front in a private car, fired three times, and then withdrew so that she should never fall into the hands of the enemy.

THIS much was certain: Katiusha was a new powerful weapon, built by Andrei Kostikov, a dark, young-looking shrewd military engineer of first rank, made lieutenant-general chief of a construction bureau. The nickname Katiusha came from a love song, popular among millions of Red army men. Red army men who preferred to be respectful invented a more polite form of first and middle names Maria Ivanovna.

Katiusha remained a mystery throughout the first two years of the war. I came across what seemed to be her tracks several times. Once, I was shown a rocketgun, and told that was "little Katiusha." Another time, a crater was pointed out, and I was told, "Katiusha did that." An artillery general told me the Germans feared her so much that they threatened to employ poison gas if the Russians continued to use Katiusha; and they warned that no Red army man serving Katiusha would ever be taken alive by the Wehrmacht. The only other information he would give about Katiusha was that she was still in action.

In the second year of the war, I was told that Katiusha had grown a large family, and that now her offspring, big and small, were living all along the front. They worked, I was told, on the mortar principle. By then, the Germans had captured several of them, and had produced their own version of the gun—promptly nicknamed, by the Russians, "Vaniusha." Exactly what Katiusha or Vaniusha was, I still did not know.

But in that first summer of the war, Katiusha was only one of the mysteries of the Red army. No foreign observer had yet been to the front. Then, as the Red army shook off the first shocks of the invasion, felt the confidence of its strength flowing back and fought the Germans to a standstill on the central front, we were admitted to its mystic precincts. General

"IKE'S" AIDE. Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Swing (above) served as adviser and coordinator of airborne troops under General Eisenhower when the allied forces invaded Sicily.

Mason MacFarlane, chief of the British military mission, later to become governor-general of Gibraltar, was escorted on a trip to the front near Smolensk late in August. On Sept. 8 the Red army and people celebrated victory to date, the defeat of eight German divisions and the recapture of Yelna, southeast of Smolensk. That news was given to the correspondents in the midst of the Napoleonic battle, the anti-aircraft guns outside played their version of the Seventh Symphony. One week later, the correspondents were taken on their first visit to the front and Yelna.

[illegible] AUGUST 12, 1943

A Symbol for France

THE FLOATING of the great liner Normandie is more than a great engineering feat or a [illegible] of salvage. It is a gesture which may do much toward improving relations be[illegible] United States.

Nothing which has happened during the 150 [illegible] between the two countries required greater adaptation on the part of the French [illegible] the burning and sinking of [illegible] when they were in port. Left with no [illegible] for safekeeping at the outbreak of the war and taken over by this government the French and many others in finding a lot of good Americans regard her sinking as at least an act of almost inexcusable carelessness.

The fact that the Normandie has risen from the mud of the river flats and now floats again is welcome news to Americans and Frenchmen alike. It is symbolic of the rebuilding which must be done with men and nations. It is a portent of day when sunken hopes will be raised again.

A. W. O. L. from War Job

SOME war workers—all honor to them—are on their job with high patriotic resolve to turn out the tools of victory and bring the war to a successful end just as speedily as possible. Employment figures show that there are some others who have no such worthy motive.

The absentee figures are appalling. Figures from the plants show that in some areas more than seven per cent of the workers are away from the job every day. Some absence is unavoidable but when the daily average runs that high it means only that there are slackers and shirkers on the payroll.

America has honored in many ways the men and women who fight their share of the war at the machines. It will continue to do so. Those who do their duty deserve chevrons and ribbons just as richly as the men with the guns they have made. The worker who goes A. W. O. L. wears his decorations falsely. Loss of a single day from his job without good reason strips him of his right to be proud of the "E" which floats from the factory flagstaff. Only the ultimate is enough on the home front.

August Sound Effect

ALL the time wasted in hunting for the simile to describe the sound of locusts pulsing in the sultry air of August could have been saved by greater familiarity with the war worker's alarm clock—the kind that substitutes a buzzer for a bell.

It is indistinguishable on an August afternoon from the whirring of the locusts in the trees outside the window—the same rhythmic rise to the crescendo, the same dwindling into silence. But one would need to be listening to the clocks at exactly the right time to get the complete effect—the time when they are buzzing by the score. Otherwise, the distinguishing characteristic of August's chief sound effect would be lost. When the locusts are in tune, they never stop.

Their shrill buzzing is caught up endlessly by new performers as old ones tire and run down. Science says the relentless music is concerned somehow with mating, but humans understand it only as something that comes with August, like burned-out grass, goldenrod and tomatoes by the bushel. So accustomed are they to the sound effect they forget it is there, but let it stop for a moment and the silence roars until it is overcome by another zz-zz-zz-zz-zz-ZZ-ZZ-ZZ-ZZ-zz-zz-zz-zz. What would August be without it?

An Old American Trait

OPTIMISM is a quality born into the American people. The Pilgrims had it when they crossed the ocean to settle in a land of savages, the woodsmen had it when they came over the Alleghenies and settled Ohio and the pioneers were full of it when they braved Indians, deserts, mountains and everything else to open the west.

Americans have always tackled any job with the feeling that they could finish it. Up to this time they have always finished anything important they started out to do.

If we are full of confidence and optimism about the war, it is just the exercise of an old American trait and nothing to get worried about.

The old plainsmen didn't sit down on the banks of the Mississippi and take things easy just because they were confident they could get to Oregon when they got around to finishing the trip. On the contrary, it was this optimism that drove them on through drouth and blizzard and Indian attacks.

Their descendants are no more likely to sit back and take it easy because they are confident we are going to win this war.

Col. Valentine Blacker is credited with expressing the feeling more than 100 years ago in the historic line: "Put your trust in the Lord, my boys, and keep your powder dry."

Goering has already had cause enough to rue the day he began devastation at Rotterdam, Coventry, London and countless other cities. Now it's Germany's turn to suffer by the very weapons she sought to make her own. —British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Only a few of us in the regiment were Germans. The rest were Austrians and Italians. Our equipment was getting bad. They would not fight; we could not.—German prisoner in Sicily.

News Behind the News

Wallace Speaking Campaign Since Demotion Seems To Rally Followers.

By PAUL MALLON

W[illegible]

[illegible] Mr. Roosevelt told the country [illegible] to argue over peace details but to get on with the war. Senator Hayden does not believe so. We are move conducts with the White House wishes, because of pay. Wallace is not going into details. Nevertheless Wallace is an outstanding advocate for getting together with foreign nations now on a peace program—a step which the White House obviously does not plan to take.

While Wallace is trying to carve out a new left-wing career for himself, of force Mr. Roosevelt to include him on the fourth term ticket, the orthodox Democratic politicians are taking a decidedly different—but just as interesting—new line themselves.

Speaker Rayburn, often mentioned as the next Roosevelt running mate in Wallace's place, has made a Texas speech denouncing both criticism and critics of the administration, calling them "gumshine." This was followed by a speech from Senator Carter Glass, saying no one should criticize the administration in war time.

Fourth Term

Apparently, the Democrats are not only getting ready for the fourth term, but are preparing to shush anyone who says anything about them. They not only want re-election, but their tactics suggest they are going to insist on no vocal opposition.

If they can create an impression that it is unpatriotic or unwise for anyone to criticize the President or the administration, the election should be a mere formality.

Criticism, however, still goes on. A butcher in a leading Washington grocery store (one where Mr. Ickes sells his eggs) has been following a habit of asking each customer if he would vote for Mr. Roosevelt for re-election. Then he always announces that, he, for one, is not going to, and he will give you a pretty good talk running from five to 30 minutes on his reasons.

He's Still Talking

A justice department agent called on him the other day, he says, either to see if he is loyal or if he could be hushed. The justice department man lost the argument. The butcher laid down this rule to him:

"I am not saying anything about the war, or anything wrong, and you can't do anything to me."

He is still talking.

This matter was settled at the outset of the war. The true distinction was then drawn. Political opposition and constructive criticism are indispensable requirements for the democratic system we are fighting for. Loyalty to the country must never be confused with partisan political loyalty to a party or an individual.

GORDON SEAGRAVE

• • •

THE same house that published Victor Heiser's very popular books about his medical activities now has a still better product, to wit: Gordon S. Seagrave's "Burma Surgeon." This is not only a book full of adventure of a peculiarly exciting sort, but full of human interest and good will.

Dr. Seagrave has also had the good sense to see how that strongest of all world "emotions," which is love, can be exploited. Boy, has he been writing about Burma as if it were Abyssinia, Kansas, and this is even for the proper way.

For example, at the often while driving Chevrolets over mountain passes at top speed he [illegible] them as casually as if they were [illegible] confessing the world that although [illegible] he never was able to see [illegible] is as big-eyed as anything but beautiful creatures.

Dr. Seagrave was born into a [illegible] Burma missionaries, in Rangoon. He prepared as a medical missionary at Johns Hopkins, leaving that institution with a well [illegible]-all of proven surgical [illegible] and a desire to work. He also says he took luck with [illegible] to Burma, although most people would call it nonsense.

In any case he wound up at a dirty five-cot [illegible] in the Northern Shan States, and there created a fine hospital and saved literally thousands of lives by main strength and guts. He had no equipment, so he improvised until he could buy. He had no nurses, and he trained them. When bubonic plague struck, he stole vaccine from the government, practically speaking. He found soldiers dying beside the lengthening Burma Road, and blind men dragging stone boats and such. These he treated.

Branch hospitals were established, he directed also a private hospital connected with a plane factory, and when General Stilwell's retreat began, Seagrave (by then commissioned in the United States Army) went along with his nurses, who were the real heroines of that famous retreat.

This is not a fair outline, because it necessarily leaves out all the color. "Burma Surgeon" is the most colorful, most readable nonfiction I have seen for months.

War Plants

The government has spent as much as 25 billion in war plants and facilities, many of which can be utilized in the post-war industrial economy, reports Washington Review, published by United States Chamber of Commerce.

At the end of the war the government will own as much as 10 per cent of the national steel capacity.

Aluminum will be produced in nine plants, fabricated in 45, built by the government at a cost of 760 million. Annual aluminum producing capacity of government plants will be greater than that of all plants owned by private industry.

Synthetic rubber in an annual amount one-third greater than ever was used in peacetime will be produced in government-owned plants costing 625 million.

Aviation investments of the government total 2.7 billion, 10 times the value of the privately-owned industry. The government owns 521 plants for the production of aircraft.

"In each of these and other industries the government's post-war policy may cause serious injury to private enterprise or, if properly directed, may be helpful to it," says Washington Review.

"PICKLE" SEASON

Today and Tomorrow

Aircraft Production Problem Analyzed; "Scare Talk" To Increase Output Discouraged.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IT OUGHT by this time to be as plain as a nose on a man's face that our people do not take well to being scolded or scared. Give them a definite job to do, like raising the Normandie, tell them clearly what is wanted and why it is wanted, and they will do it better and more quickly than any one dared to hope. But when officials who do not know exactly what they want ask the people to do things the people do not clearly understand, like not driving for "pleasure," then they cannot be scolded and scared into willing obedience.

The worst of all ways to get results is to manufacture a scare by reporting, as was done recently, the "sensational news" that "an unprecedented drop in airplane production suddenly has taken place." There has been no drop in airplane production. On the contrary, a greater number of combat planes of greater weight, size and power were made in July than have ever been made here or in any other country.

What did happen is that the increase was not so large as the tremendous schedules call for. In June, for example, the schedules called for about 7,600 planes; the industry turned out 7,000. In July the schedules called for some 8,000 planes, and we got 7,373. We are not faced with a sensational drop in production, but with the problem of achieving in the next few months a still more sensational rise in production.

The Solution

The problem can be solved by being honest, fair, lucid and definite with ourselves, with the managers, the aircraft workers, the civilian and uniformed officials and with the people. We shall then say the simple truth: that they are performing wonders and we intend to help them perform even greater wonders.

Let us begin by seeing the state of American war production as a whole. Only then can we do with our eyes open what the aircraft program calls for. The basic fact is that, broadly speaking, all branches of war production, except aircraft, are now fully developed on their ultimate basis. We are getting all the ships, the tanks, guns, ammunition, vehicles and other equipment that our military plans call for.

Never before have Americans gone to war with such arms as they have today, and we are snide if we are not profoundly grateful to the men who have planned and directed, executed, managed and toiled to produce this result.

Our plans call, however, for something more than great armies, surface fleets and an air force that is the master of the skies in every theater where it is now operating. Our plans call for an air force which can reach the heart of our two enemies and strike them mortally.

That is why the aircraft industry is not yet on its ultimate basis. That is why the problem of the aircraft industry is to get a still greater expansion. That is why, though we produced 7,000 planes in July, we are calling for 8,000 and 9,000, and then 10,000 planes of increasing size and firepower by the end of this year.

Once we see this, we see that our problem is in fact how to carry out the great enterprise of forming quickly, and therefore at the smallest cost in lives and treasure, an absolutely crushing air power which will fall, as a sailor put it who saw Pantelleria bombed, like the wrath of God upon the shuddering earth.

There will be needed in the next few months an additional 600,000 men and women for aircraft and aircraft parts. Those additional workers must come from somewhere. We have no slave labor to draw upon, we have only the labor of our own people. We need, therefore, a much less demagogic administrative of the selective service law, not for the purpose of drafting fathers pell-mell into the army, but in order to bring it about that men deferred because they are fathers are also induced to do necessary war work at home.

We need, also, a revision of the blanket deferments of whole classes of workers so that men classified as essential can be drawn in an order of priorities into those industries which, like the aircraft, are more essential than others.

We need also to recognize that the managers and the workers in the war industries should be protected as far as we can against personal anxiety. To the directors and managers of the war industries the government should give a guaranty, underwritten by the nation, that their contracts will be tapered off and not suddenly cancelled. To the workers we should give the guaranty of a dismissal wage, so that they may tide themselves over until industry is reconverted to civilian use.

To all of them, employers and employes alike, we should give the assurance that they will not be forgotten ungratefully by the republic they have done so much to save, and that our people will tolerate no inquisition, no persecutions and no loose charges of any kind against capital or against labor.

Remember the Good

Race Horses, Bankers, Fighters and Others Who Hit the Past Should't Be Blamed for Past

By DAMON RUNYON

THOSE writers have a stock term that [illegible] me it reminds me of a [illegible] of human nature.

They [illegible] speak of a race horse [illegible] time in his career may have been [illegible] as an "ex-plater" [illegible] may have long since advanced [illegible] status of an outstanding stakes winner. [illegible] winner of the Arlington Hurdle [illegible].

[illegible] races suggest a lowly status [illegible] and the reference is as if the [illegible] not want the public and [illegible] ever forget it was a bum. [illegible] guy you all know who, when [illegible] of a successful citizen is brought [illegible]:

"He used to be a —"

Perhaps it was a follower of some [illegible] occupation, honorable enough, but mentioned by the wise guy as a compliment. It is somehow reflected on the current [illegible] citizen.

Or the recollection may have more [illegible] implications. The wise guy may remember that the citizen used to be a [illegible] or a gambler or a roustabout in a [illegible]. Remembrance of this nature makes the guy [illegible] proud.

[illegible] always made it a point [illegible] for the purpose of mentioning a fact that a man or [illegible] would rather [illegible], or that [illegible] something a person directly concerned does not care to discuss. I hold with the [illegible] I speak it is not what you used to be but what you are today.

I DO not place in the category of [illegible] any humble circumstances in a successful career, because it has been my observation that most successful persons started from low are proud of that fact [illegible] they have become snobs or dampheads, which is the same thing. I just object to the guy making conversation of one period of someone's life in a successful man's life with the intent to cheapen his successes.

I think a man who has lifted himself by his own bootstraps is entitled to mention the basis of his immediate status, if you want to discuss him at all, rather than on the basis he was a bindle stiff. I suppose I feel some way about race horses, though I have often doubted that the horses care what is said about them.

I have peered into the stall of many a racehorse after a race which left the customers [illegible] losing the critter a pig, a dog, a cow, a mule and everything else in the animal kingdom except a horse. I have never yet found one of them blushing in embarrassment or hanging its head in shame. I fear that the race horse never knows when it is a 4 to 5 favorite and never realize that it can spread gloom over half a state by hiding behind other horses in a race.

NOR do I think a race horse cares how it is graded in life. A $1,000 claimer gets just as much oats as a Seabiscuit or a Man O' War, both of whom had to endure the humiliating appellation of "ex-plater" until they won the position of many rich men of humble beginnings as far as the newspaper writers are concerned. I mean newspaper writers who scarcely refer to the leading banker of a community as an "ex-bartender," even though he had been a bartender and that is the way he was with Seabiscuit and Alsab.

They won so much money that it would have been disrespectful to money to speak of them as "ex-platers". They won fairly close to a million between them. I judge the boys will continue to refer to Marriage as an "ex-plater" who have failed to tot up the old steed's gross as has won upwards of $150,000, which must be pretty close to the immunity class. I can remember that the sports writers stopped speaking of Jack Dempsey as an "ex-hobo" when he got up into that kind of money.

BY TRUMAN TWILL

DEAR NEPHEW: I received your letter and this is to tell you to come ahead. We will shovel some of the clutter out of the little room you always stayed in when you used to come to see us years ago and you can fit in there without any trouble.

Your fishing pole is in the wagon shed along the east wall where it always used to be. I looked at it yesterday and decided to rig up a new line for you. As far as I can see, the rod, reel and the hook were all right. It's been a long time, but they were in a good dry place.

While I was at it, I took the spade and dug along the fence by the west end of the orchard where you said you always could find worms when they weren't to be had anywhere else. I found a few. I don't think you'll have much trouble.

When you strike off down the side road to the river, where I suppose you'll be wanting to go you can forget the war. Things don't change much down that way. Occasionally they cut off a couple of trees for timber in the woods, but mostly it's just the way it was when I was a kid trudging along in the same direction, eating the same blackberries, stopping at the same spring and bringing home the same mess of pesky little fish.

In all the years I've been going to that same spot I never caught a fish worth the name, but in all the years I've been fishing I've never found a place so completely satisfactory for not catching fish. I plan to knock off and fish with you one day while you are here.

Your aunt sends word, and if she hadn't thought of it I was going to say so myself, not to fool with ration books. We're not in the source of supply to be skimping on much here—yet. It wouldn't seem right for you to haggle over a lot of little pieces of paper when our favorite nephew is coming for a comfortable visit anyway. We're still that civilized.

Wear old clothes. I plan to prop you on the porch and let you and the natives scrap with each other. I'll furnish the cigars. I don't want you to take offense, but you've been living so far away from the people you grew up with for your own good. I think it will maybe open your eyes to put up some of your notions against these flea-bitten old so-and-so's that you have here to pass the time of day.

I am glad you are bringing the boy. It is high time he found out what real living is. His aunt is going to make a double batch of ginger cookies for his benefit and I suppose yours too, unless you've changed. We are expecting you. If you must bring me a cigar you know the kind I like.

Some things, of course, you'll find a little different. You will have to get used to your aunt in slacks, but if I can do it I guess you can. She's still the same old gal and when she puts on a skirt again doesn't look any the worse for wear. Of course, I'm the same as ever.

MARSH POTATO CROP ABOUT HALF OF NORMAL

Weather Causes Drop in Hardin County Yield.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Aug. 12—Major growers on the Scioto marsh this week started harvesting their 1943 crop of commercial potatoes and said that early returns indicated the crop would be only about one-half a normal yield. The potatoes are of medium size and good quality.

A combination of too much rain, too hot a sun and the fact that many of the potatoes were planted too late in the spring resulted in deterioration of crop prospects.

The white onion crop has been harvested and work of topping yellow onions started yesterday on Jesse Dysert farm. The onion harvest will be completed by late September.

Peppermint also is being harvested with two stills—one on the Scioto Land company holdings and the other on the Paul Huston farm—in operation. Heavy rains beat the leaves from the peppermint plants and resulted in lessened production of peppermint oil. However, the product is of good quality, growers said.

Growers are "getting by" although there is an apparent shortage of labor, they said.

You ought to see it!

I mean the big Old Fort Mills Plant way out on George Street. Oh, yes, everybody knows of this plant, but do you know how many of those monster storage bins there are? Have you any idea of the capacity of each bin? Do you know how many cars are handled each day? How much money comes into Marion through this plant?

It will be worth your while to pay them a visit, and, it will do you a lot of good, too. The folks out there will give you the impression that they are wide-awake, progressive and completely interested in the well being of their employees. Notice the expansive, brightly lighted general offices. Well ventilated and conveniently arranged for efficient work. As you approach the main entrance you will be struck by the big notice on the door: "WELCOME." That sign was not put there for commercial purposes, it tells you just how you will be received. Of the spirit that animates the entire organization.

Step in and look over that big office. See that brand new floor of Armstrong Asphalt Tile installed by Lennon's. It is warm and inviting. It bespeaks the friendliness of the folks who work there. Until last week it was of beautiful white oak. As nice a floor as you will find in Marion. Cost a lot of money, too.

That new floor is TWELVE TIMES more quiet than hard wood floors and is many times more easily cleaned. The upkeep on Armstrong Tile floors is so very low that Old Fort Mills will save the cost of this new installation in a few years and at the same time they have the most beautiful office floor in the City. They will be glad to have you inspect it.

Thousands of manufacturing plants throughout the country are finding it profitable to install Armstrong Tile in offices, warehouses and factory floors. Concrete floors in direct contact with the ground can be safely covered with moisture-resistant Armstrong Asphalt Tile for better health and greater efficiency of the workmen.

We will be glad to show you a striking picture of the offices of The Link Belt Co. of Indianapolis, Ind. Compare it with your own office floor. You will be surprised how it will add warmth and beauty and healthfulness to a room. Armstrong Asphalt Tile is low in cost and most economical in up-keep.

MY SOAP STAYS DRY AND FIRM
Because it's OVAL in shape!
DRIES FAST, MELTS LESS
Sweetheart's OVAL CAKE barely touches wet soap dish. Air dries it fast. Stays firm, melts less, LASTS LONGER!
PART-SOAP, PART-JEL
Many square soaps lie flat in wet soap dish. Result: a layer of "jelly" ... dissolves quickly. Melting is waste.

Let our experts help you in choosing a DIAMOND

There is a much greater difference in the quality of diamonds than most people realize. And unless this difference is known, value is uncertain no matter how low the price may be. That's why we believe our diamond experts can be of real help to you.

Here is our suggestion: Instead of waiting until you are ready to buy your diamond, come in now and have a talk with them about diamonds. They'll be glad to explain the difference in diamond quality and show you how to buy to best advantage. There is no obligation, of course.

Cream Puffs.

1 c. water, ½ c. butter or margarine, 1 c. flour, 3 eggs.

Boil water and butter, stir in flour dry. When cooked let it cool, then stir in eggs one at a time, beating. Drop on tin and bake in a moderate oven about 40 minutes. When done, cut open at top and fill with cream.

Cream.

2 c. milk, 2 tbsp. baking powder, 1 c. sugar, 1 tsp. vanilla or lemon.

Stopped by Alcan

By The Associated Press

FORT MYERS, Fla.—Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Sherill and their terrier "Penny" are giving up housekeeping in their covered wagon because Sherill can't figure out a way to get it over the Alcan highway to Alaska.

Two years ago Sherill got tired of trying to find apartments as he moved from town to town for his work and bought a 20-foot wagon. Since then it has been their home—complete with telephone, corner cupboards and kitchen sink.

But despite the long distance records of the old prairie schooners, Sherill doesn't think his covered wagon would stand the rigors of a trip to Alaska.

Fun in Your Own Back Yard

BACK YARD BARBECUE: Pool your guests' coupons for a steak. Fat salvage containers add patriotic note.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Associated Press Food Editor

Most picnics this year have to be within walking range of the kitchen. For many of us that means the back yard, terrace or porch.

Low-point meats and other main dishes suitable for quick and easy serving are preferred. Or you can plan a combination affair with the guests pooling their ration stamps for a good steak. Part of the meal can be started in the kitchen and the cooking finished over the barbecue fire.

Chops, franks, kabobs and other small meats, require short cooking time when broiled over a glowing fire.

BARBECUED CORN is fun to cook over an outdoor grill or open fire. Discard the husks and silk from good fresh corn. Wrap each ear with a thin slice of bacon, pegging it in place with picks or metal skewers. Pierce with sharp stick and broil until bacon is crisp and the corn a light brown. Turn the stick slowly and steadily for best cooking. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper mixed together in a large shaker. No butter is needed to give flavor to corn cooked like this.

FRANKS AND TOMATO CUBES make grand out-door eating. Cut franks into half-inch cubes. String up the franks and tomatoes on long forks, metal skewers, or thin sticks. Dip in barbecue sauce and broil about 8 minutes or until brown.

The sauce is good with any barbecued meat. Make it like this: Simmer 10 minutes 4 tablespoons margarine, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sliced fresh tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon finely chopped onion and ¼ cup vinegar. Add a clove of garlic and discard it after 4 minutes of cooking. Press the cooked mixture through a coarse sieve.

HAMBURG CREOLE starts in the kitchen and finishes over the outdoor fire. Mix together 1 pound hamburg, 2-3 cup dried bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika and 1 tablespoon each of finely minced onions and parsley. Shape into inch balls. Roll in flour and brown in 5 tablespoons bacon fat, chopped suet or salt pork. Simmer 15 minutes 2 cups corn, 2 cups cooked noodles, 2½ cups cubed tomatoes (fresh), 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika and ¼ cup each chopped onions and celery. Add 4 tablespoons margarine or bacon drippings and ¼ cup flour. Blend thoroughly and add the meat balls. Pour into 2 shallow, greased baking dishes. Bake 25 minutes in modern oven. Cover and finish cooking 15 minutes over the outdoor fire. This amount will serve eight, generously.

HOT SPICED BEET RELISH gives tang to meats cooked out of doors. Simmer 20 minutes 2 cups chopped cooked beets, 2-3 cup sweet pickle relish, ½ cup water, ½ cup vinegar, 1-3 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons pickling spices loosely tied in a white muslin square. Discard the spice bag and boil the relish a minute. Serve hot with meats.

CORN VEGETABLE FRITTERS are filling and inexpensive to cook on a griddle set over the outdoor stove. To serve 6 or 7, mix together 3 cups flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, 1½ cups grated fresh corn, 2-3 cup sliced, cooked carrots, 2 tablespoons each minced onions, green peppers and parsley, 3 eggs, beaten, 1½ cups milk and 2 tablespoons shortening, melted. Pour from a pitcher onto hot greased griddle. Brown on both sides and serve hot with cheese or tomato sauce.

War Bonds should mean something more to you than just "a good sound investment." Figure it out yourself.

OHIO FARM LABOR NEEDS SURVEYED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12—Ohio sought today to determine its farm labor needs for the harvest season rapidly nearing its peak.

Under the direction of Guy Dowdy, state supervisor for emergency farm labor, the Ohio agricultural extension service is asking all county farm agents and local farm labor offices to list harvesting jobs in their areas, the number of workers required, how many of these must be obtained outside the community and wages farmers will pay.

In many cases efforts to recruit factory workers and women have not been very successful. Mr. Dowdy said. Although farm camps were established near Huron in Erie county, for instance, only 38 members and needed more.

At Cincinnati, the war manpower commission projected postponement of public school opening until Oct. 18 to permit some 7,000 townsfolk help with crops to continue for a time as essential farm and factory pupils. School boards throughout the state have signified their willingness to grant work permits to high school students to help on farms.

One potential source of labor is the 2,500 Mexican workers [illegible] to Ohio to harvest the sugar beet crop. John T. Brown, state director of agriculture, estimated the crop would total only [illegible] per cent under the 1942 record, making more beet sugar for the feeding of other people.

Brown said representatives of Ohio beet growing industry in a conference here yesterday had [illegible] Buckeye beet crop "was [illegible] failure but reasonable success" as was disagreement among federal agencies.

Caledonia Services Are Well Attended

Special to The Star

CALEDONIA — There was a good attendance Sunday at the first of three union services being held by the Caledonia churches in the Universalist church. The pastor, Stanley C. Stall, had charge, and Rev. R. S. McCracken of the Memorial Methodist church took for his subject, "Quest for God." Rev. E. H. Shutteriant of the Church of Christ conducted the responsive service and read from the scriptures and lead in prayer. Mrs. Dawn Jolliffe sang a solo, with Marian Monnett of Marion at the piano. Miss Monnett and E. E. Hipsher played a piano duet. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. McCracken.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eisenhauer and son Tommy have returned home from Kingtown, Pa., where they were called by the illness and death of Mr. Eisenhauer's mother, Mrs. Lydia E. Eisenhauer, whose funeral was held July 25. They also visited Mrs. Eisenhauer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hosler at Bloomsburg, Pa.

GALION—Mrs. E. L. Willis, 2701 Kensington Place, Columbus, has received a silver pin and special recognition for donating blood to the Red Cross blood bank, four times since last December.

Army Discharges Vet, 16, but He Will Join Again at 17

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 12—"I'm gonna get back as soon as I can."

Staff Sergt. Clifford R. Wherley, 16, speaking — back today from nearly a year of combat as an air forces gunner in the Mediterranean, back to be discharged because the Army found out that when he enlisted on April Fool's day, 1942, he was not 16 as he said, but 14.

His father, Roy Wherley of Elmwood, Ill., "wasn't exactly happy about it" when Cliff wrote home that he had joined the Army, and his mother wanted to get him out at once, but Cliff persuaded her "it wouldn't do me any good." He doesn't know how the Army finally found out, and sent him home from North Africa.

Meantime, he had been in combat since last September — over Tunis, Gabes, Sfax, Kasserine Pass, Sicily, Sardinia and Pantelleria. He wears the air medal with three oak leaf clusters as evidence of his 22 combat missions as turret gunner in a Martin B-26 Marauder medium bomber. He is credited with one German ME109 fighter destroyed, and shares 15 other enemy planes with other gunners in his group.

He said he expected to go to Chicago within the next few days, and then home to Elmwood, where he will be discharged. The Glenn L. Martin Company has offered him a job as an inspector, with his choice of the Omaha or Baltimore plant, and he expects to take it until his 17th birthday, next May 28. Then he plans to enlist in the air corps reserve, and start over again.

BITES RESCUER'S LEG

By The Associated Press

TIPTONVILLE, TENN. — Add ungratefulness: a farmer was hospitalized here when bitten in the leg by a mule he was helping to rescue from quicksand. The mule, frightened by a derrick being used in the rescue, held to the farmer's leg so firmly it had to be knocked senseless before being pried loose.

Weird Tale Told by Survivors of Ocean Disaster

By International News Service

DURBAN, SOUTH AFRICA—After 30 harrowing days in an open lifeboat in the Indian ocean, six seamen have landed here with one of the strangest of this war's many stories.

Twenty-four men from a torpedoed Allied freighter started out in the lifeboat; 16 died of deliriums or jumped overboard before they were finally rescued.

Five days out they were sighted by a plane; the men became encouraged and finished most of the remaining food and water. But a storm blew up, heaving up 40 foot waves around the small craft.

One wave capsized the lifeboat and the compass, instruments and remaining water were lost. The boat was not sighted again for 25 days.

During that time all the men would have died except that a flying fish flew into the boat and provided a miniature meal for the survivors. Later a rainstorm came and the men caught fresh water in an old raincoat.

Finally, after a month adrift, a plane sighted them and signalled: "Thumbs up, help coming soon."

But the weather grew worse and more men died. When the storm ended the sun returned, burning and parching the men. They prayed for rain; when it returned there was a violent storm again.

Their last two matches were usd to light a distress flare to signal another plane, which directed a freighter to their rescue.

WMC To Reveal Plans Soon Covering New Regulations for Calling Men.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—A [illegible] new return and [illegible] more [illegible] of fathers is expected [illegible] out of Saturday [illegible] Commissioner [illegible] action.

The [illegible] will be turned [illegible] will be started at adopting draft [illegible] by giving draft-eligible men [illegible] deferment to fit into vital war production work. It was described as [illegible] the ultimate WMC move short of a general [illegible] draft.

But even as this was developing, Senator Davis (R-Pa) proposed that congress remove selective service from the "domination" of the WMC and specifically bar induction of fathers until all other eligible men are taken by the armed forces. There is, he said, no military need for drafting family heads.

New Regulations

The forthcoming action was said to be embraced in new draft regulations:

1—Broadening the "non-deferrable" list so holders of certain jobs in specified activities would or might be called first, regardless of how many children they have, unless their induction would mean "extreme hardship and privation" to dependents.

2—Granting super-eligibility for occupational deferment to certain jobs and to certain industries engaged in direct production of war goods and machines.

Thus, draft-age men would have an incentive to get out of non-deferrable jobs to avoid speedy induction.

Although this would not alter plans for drafting fathers, it might slow up the drafting of fathers in this way.

Fathers now in other jobs, especially those designated as non-deferrable, would be spurred to take jobs in war industries and thus replace non-fathers now deferred in those jobs because no replacements are available for them.

Estimate On Number

As the non-fathers' deferments were ended, they would be called for induction, thus enabling draft boards to fill their quotas without calling fathers, or calling fewer than has been anticipated.

There have been estimates that only about 300,000 fathers would have to be drafted this year.

Davis said many local draft board officials in his state had informed him that they were prepared to place all fathers in class 3-D (for "hardship" cases) until all single men had been called, adding that this stand "meets with my whole-hearted approval."

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Gun and Ax Found

A—We found a gun in one [illegible] other hand.
Q—What did you do then?
A—We called the police who were then out in front of the house.
Q—Did you enter any other rooms on the second floor?
A—Yes, all of them.
Q—Did you find anything in the southwest bedroom?
A—Yes, another 25-foot section of garden hose.
Q—Where was it?
A—It was on the floor almost in the center of the room.
Q—What did you do then?
A—Went downstairs to see about an ambulance.
Q—Could you tell who the person laying in the upstairs hallway was?
A—I didn't know the person. I only know what I have read since.
Q—Was the person a man or woman?
A—A woman.
Q—Was she dressed?
A—She was wearing somekind of a robe or housecoat.
Q—Were you upstairs anymore?
A—Yes, after the body was removed I went back up to make sure the fire was out.

Mr. Strelitz told the court the defense would not cross examine Cochert.

Police Captain Testifies

The next witness called by the state was Capt. Mackan.

After a number of preliminary questions, Prosecutor Reed asked Capt. Mackan, "Were you in on the case at 515 North State street on June 27?"

A.—I live at the corner of North State and East Farming streets and at 6:30 a. m. June 2 I heard fire and police sirens. Instead of going to the scene of the alarm I went to the police station, where I was scheduled to go on duty at 7 a. m. At the station I learned that an explosion and fire had occurred at the North State street address. At 7. a. m. I relieved Capt. Ora DeWees, who turned over to me evidence and particulars of the case. I then continued the police investigation.

Q.—Was the house locked when you went to it?

A.—It was but Capt. DeWees had obtained a key, which he left at the police station.

Q.—What did you find at the house?

A.—Capt. Dewees brought to police headquarters a pistol, a small hand axe, a 25-foot section of garden hose and a short piece of flexible tubing. I found another 25-foot section of hose in the southwest bedroom on the second floor of the Vance residence.

Q.—What else?

A flashlight on the bed in the southwest bedroom, woman's apparel and woman's shoes.

Prosecutor Reed then asked, "In whose room did you find these?" The defense objected and Judge Hazen sustained the objection.

Q—What else did you find?

Tells of List

A.—The police department has a list of everything. I fail to remember all of the items. Articles were taken from the bedrooms, bathroom and the upstairs hall.

Q—Were any tools removed?

Q.—Yes. A can of anti-freeze and a chisel from the dresser in one of the bedrooms.

Q.—Was anything else removed as evidence?

A.—I can't recall anything else.

Q.—Did you investigate the home further?

A.—Yes, on several occasions. Once to board up the windows of the southeast bedroom. A second time to remove perishable food from the refrigerator and for further investigation.

The witness at this point was turned over to the defense for cross-examination.

Mr Strelitz asked Capt Mackan, "Have the items referred to as evidence been removed from the home?"

A—Yes.

Q.—Were they itemized and tagged as to where they were taken from?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Is a copy of the list of these items available?

A.—No. In the Marion police department we have a rule that one man is accountable for evidence and property. Desk Sgt. L. E Reardon handles these matters and he is now on vacation.

Recess Taken

Despite Capt. Mackan's continued statement that a copy of the list could not be obtained, Strelitz continued to insist for a copy. The hearing was recessed for five minutes to give Capt Mackan time to produce the list in question.

When the hearing was resumed, Capt Mackan told Strelitz that a copy could not be obtained. Capt Mackan then assured the defense counsel that items removed as evidence were tagged and itemized.

Strelitz then asked, "Who brought the gun in?"

A—Capt. DeWees. He brought the gun in, the axe, a section of hose and a small piece of flexible tubing.

Q—Did you examine the gun yourself?

A—Yes.

Q—Was it a five-chamber gun?

A.—Yes, a five chamber .32 caliber revolver.

Q—How many chambers were filled?

A.—I didn't handle the gun.

Q—Did you examine the gun in order to see how many shots were fired?

A—I did not. Another member of the police department handles this type of work.

JOINT STAFF MARKS FIRST ANNIVERSARY

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 12 — Commemorating the first anniversary of the formation of the allied headquarters staff, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told 230 staff officers today that "we have shown and will continue to show the world that the allies can fight under one command and as one nation."

The staff was organized in London a year ago to plan the North African operation and has functioned as a unit since.

"This," he said, "is the only way to win the war and the way it will be won. We joined forces for one object—to kill the Hun."

The commander of all allied forces in the North African theater said the original invasion of Africa was the greatest allied military venture in history and told his officers that "through your hard work you made it an unqualified success."

Replying, Lieut. Gen Sir Humphrey Gale, chief allied headquarters administrative officer, said every British officer considered it an honor to serve under Eisenhower's command.

Ohio U. Drops Grid Schedule for 1943

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, O., Aug. 12—Ohio university today cancelled its 1943 football schedule. Don C. Peden, athletic director, said the action followed cancellation of games with Ohio U. by other schools, the growing shortage of material, and inability to use Army men now on the campus.

He said the school still hoped to play basketball and baseball, however. Peden stressed that today's action applied only to 1943, and not the duration.

Coal Dealers Stocks Ordered Limited

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—Secretary of Interior Ickes said today that as a result of production losses due to work stoppages coal dealers will be limited to 90 per cent of "last year's requirements" of anthracite.

The solid fuels administrator said work stoppages had resulted in a loss thus far this year of 3,500,000 tons of hard coal and that "we are going to have trouble to supply the demand."

37th Presses on After Japs in New Georgia

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 12—The tenacious quality of the Japanese fighting man, resisting until blasted out of his foxhole or shot down from his treetop sniper position, is being demonstrated anew within the slowly diminishing area where the enemy is holding out on northern New Georgia.

The battle for Munda ended a week ago today. On that day, United States Infantry elements of the 25th, 37th and 43rd divisions and the Marines overran the 4,500-foot airstrip, dotted with wrecked Japanese planes.

Until Munda's capture, Bairoko harbor to the north of it on the Kula gulf was technically the supply port for the airfield garrison although in actuality Bairoko was cut off from communication with Munda in mid-July by U. S. jungle troops. But with Munda's fall, Bairoko's military importance declined and, indeed, the area constituted a potential death trap.

American forces already had one jaw set against Bairoko, moving on it from the northeast after putting ashore at Rice anchorage on July 5.

With Munda's fall another American force began advancing northward from the airfield. It deployed around a mangrove swamp. The right flank within a few days reached a point two miles southeast of Bairoko and joined the force which came down from the northeast, effecting an encirclement.

Despite this seemingly hopeless situation from the Japanese standpoint, the enemy has put up such fierce resistance against the force which deployed to the left of the swamp that today's communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported it still was only half way toward its objective.

Out on a raiding expedition over Sicily, Glessner dropped a copy of the Steubenville Herald-Star from the skies over the Italian mainland.

Post-War Unity One of Problems Needing Solution

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

This column [illegible] that one of the [illegible] to be discussed [illegible] conference between [illegible] velt and [illegible] will bring [illegible] operation [illegible] Russia and [illegible] and all the allies in general.

This great [illegible] contemplates the likelihood that the Soviet Union will emerge from the war the dominant power in Europe, and perhaps in the world as well. That's the way the cards are falling at present.

Now, of course, I don't know whether that subject will come before President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill. I just think it's so pressing that it almost inevitably must arise. Next to the winning of the war, there's no question of greater importance today. Vice President Wallace pinned the issue down with startling forthrightness last March when he declared:

"Unless the [illegible] democracies and Russia come to a satisfactory understanding before the war ends, I very much fear that World war No. 3 will be inevitable."

Others See Need

Mr. Wallace isn't the only one who foresees the possibility of conflicting interests. I found it all the way from England, through the Middle East, to Chungking, during my recent 35,000-mile tour. Now on the eve of the allied conference we see this idea cropping up significantly in the British press.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's newspaper, the Yorkshire Post, says Premier Joseph Stalin was invited to attend the conference but wasn't able to accept. The paper then warns that the "hour is at hand when it will be imperative for the United Nations to pursue a united course not only with regard to military operations but equally with regards to the politics of Europe."

The London Times — "The Thunderer"—stresses the necessity for unity among the Americans, British and Russians, and gives as a gloomy alternative "a fresh calamity for Europe." Lord Beaverbrook's London Evening Standard expresses regret at Stalin's absence from the Washington conference. The London Daily Herald says the "time has come when Britain, America and Russia should be announcing with a single voice their program for the restoration of political liberty to Europe."

"What's the exact point of all this anxiety as the war rushes towards its end. We get many expressions of fear but people seem to be terrified of taking a peep into the closet to see what's there.

Actually, there's no dark secret involved, and no reason why it shouldn't be discussed. Better understanding of the problem might help solve the difficulties—if any.

See Soviet Domination

The point is that many astute observers throughout the world believe Russia will, as already stated, dominate Europe and maybe the Far East. Because this would represent a volcanic political upheaval, a lot of countries are afraid of the consequences. They are particularly fearful lest communism should be thrust upon them.

Russia is the world's largest country in area, occupying one-sixth of the earth's surface and having a population of nearly 200,000,000. It is virtually self-contained, possessing almost every natural resource known to man. It stretches from Europe clear through to the Pacific—a two-continent empire.

Already it possesses a titanic strength which potentially would seem to be unlimited. Militarily it's virtually impregnable. Its position as a military power has been established by sensational achievements on the battle field.

All these circumstances combine to make Russia heir to the politico-economic-military domination of central and eastern Europe which Hitler threw away when he started out to beat the world. The Soviet influence in the Far East long has been great, and the war will enhance it.

So there in a very sketchy way are the fundamental facts of the situation. The problem is to work out some agreement among the major powers which will prevent the circumstances from developing adversely.

Marion Guitar Group Wins Contest Honor

A gold cup symbolizing first place among junior ensembles at the National Guitar contest in Cleveland last Monday was awarded to the Harmony Three, composed of three of Fred Sabback's guitar pupils, Betty Bollinger, Billie Cowgill and Dick Lutz. The group played "Bells of Avalon" and "Hawaiian Blues."

Inscribed on the cup was "First Place. International Guitar League Contest." Last year the same trio won a plaque representing third place.

The Marionettes, a group of 20 of Sabback's pupils, won honorable mention, with their renditions of "This Is Worth Fighting For," "Over There," and "Der Fuehrer's Face." The Jive Bombers, consisting of Lawrence Clark, Fred Miers, Herman Miers, Jack Thibaut, and Merle Wargowski, also won honorable mention. They played "Aloha Tears" and "Uli-Lele."

Mr. Sabback took 35 students with him to Cleveland last Monday. Approximately 2,000 pupils from all over the country took part in the competition.

Mr. Sabback announced today that A. D. Crabtree of Charleston, S. C., will take over his school here Monday, and he will assume duties at Mr. Crabtree's school in Charleston, referred to as the "School of the South." There are approximately 500 students in the Charleston school. Mr. Crabtree formerly played on Seth Parker's NBC program.

LEWIS' APPLICATION GOES TO WHOLE AFL

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 — [illegible] Lewis surprise offer to [illegible] United Mine Workers back [illegible] the American Federation [illegible] per was jogged today as a [illegible] order of business for the federation's annual convention.

The AFL executive council was [illegible] powered to grant charters, [illegible] den instead to refer Lewis' application without recommendation [illegible] to the Boston convention [illegible] October.

President William Green [illegible] cedes this was unusual action [illegible] the council, but declined to amplify on interpretation. Few [illegible] find any measure of comfort for Lewis in the decision and none would be surprised if he withdrew his application rather than leave it to an open forum where he had no vote and no voice.

A series of circumstances added up to an interpretation that the decision was a rebuff to Lewis:

1. A proposal to offer him reinstatement if he agreed to drop district 50, the UMW's miniature labor movement, was rejected.

2. Green said the AFL committee would meet with Lewis again only if Lewis sought such a meeting.

3. The decision to make no recommendation to the convention, an unusual event in AFL practice.

U. S. WOUNDED REACH HOSPITALS QUICKLY

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 12—American battle casualties in Sicily are reaching North African hospitals as quickly as 12 hours from the time they are wounded, Col. Daniel Franklin, surgeon of the U. S. 7th army, announced today.

Franklin disclosed that medical men and the equipment of captured Italian army units in Sicily were aiding the allies. Paroles have been extended to Italian medical officers to serve in their own hospitals under American direction.

A large hospital for Italian casualties is operated by prisoners of war outside of Palermo.

Franklin said that early in the campaign an Italian medical officer volunteered the services of a complete hospital train, staffed by Italians, and it is engaged in evacuation of both American and Italian casualties close to the front lines. In some instances, Italian and German doctors are working side-by-side with American surgeons.

He viewed the falls from the Canadian side, drove through the Niagara Falls parks commission's formal gardens and motored down the Niagara river as far as Queenstown Heights, Ont., to see the whirlpool rapids below the falls.

When asked if he had seen the falls before, Churchill replied "I saw the falls before you were born," and explained he first visited the scenic sight in 1900.

Asked if the falls looked the same, Churchill asserted: "Well, the principal remains the same. The water still keeps falling over."

Before boarding his train on the American side, the prime minister gave the "V" salute.

TRAIN-TRUCK CRASH FATAL

SALEM, O., Aug. 12 — Albert L. Cole, about 32 years old, of Washington, Pa., was killed today in a truck-train collision at nearby Rogers. A large steel casting on the truck crushed the cab in which Cole was riding, wreckage crew workers said.

Wounded on the trips, the "newsy" had told Capt. Jack Preble, fellow member of his Mediterranean bomber squadron and former Herald-Star staff member, "he would like to be the first newsboy to deliver a Herald-Star to Italy."

Ottawa Co. Peach Crop 40 Per Cent of Normal

By The Associated Press

OAK HARBOR, O., Aug. 12 — Ottawa county's peach [illegible] which usually amounts to [illegible] third or one-fourth of Ohio's total yield, was estimated today by County Agricultural Agent C. [illegible] Bittner at only 40 per cent of normal, or between 75,000 and 100,000 bushels.

Early peaches are bringing from $3 to $5 a bushel, up 50 cents to $2 a bushel compared with last year's prices. Elberta peaches, which will be harvested here beginning about Sept. 1, are expected to bring similar prices.

Indications are that if peaches continue to be sold in small lots prices will be even higher, Bittner said.

SNEAK THIEVES ENTER TWO MARION HOMES

$5 Taken from One, $6 from the Other.

Marion homes were entered by sneak thieves yesterday with $11 the total loot.

Harmon White of 321 Davenport street was the first local housewives to report. She told city police that someone entered her home earlier in the evening and took $5 in cash from a purse lying on a stand in the living room.

A second report of a theft by burglary was made by Mrs. Ruth Tryman of 200½ East Center street last night. She said $6 was taken from a rear bedroom of her home between 7 o'clock today and about 1 a. m.

Mrs. Tryman said she was home all the time but that she suspected something evil when about Tuesday noon she was sweeping her living room floor. She said she opened a door to empty the dust pan and noticed that the screen attachment mysteriously had been thrown open.

Later when she was preparing to put the milk bottle about 7 o'clock Wednesday morning upon which she discovered the screen missing. She went to the bedroom to get money for the milkman and found $6 had been stolen.

Epworth Beats Presbies, 14-4; Waldo Wins from Commercial

Epworth lined up for the Little World Series next week by crushing Presbyterian's Sunday School softballers with great ease, 14 to 4, at McKinley park. The Waldo Dodgers pushed across a run in the eighth inning to beat out Commercial Steel for the second time this season, 5 to 4, at Lincoln park.

The Methodists' win winds up the regular softball season for them. They boast a record of 11 victories and one defeat (by St Mary's 1). It also spells finish to the Presbies' year, a dismal one, as they finished with one win out of 12 starts. The Dodger-Steeler contest was the final inter-Industrial and Commercial league game of the season.

Bob Virden, John Clark's pitching ace at Epworth, switched to second base last night to preserve his arm for the series. His sub, R. Everly, looked like a softball Johnny Vander Meer on the mound, as he gave up three hits to the Presbies, fanned 12, and walked 14, for a season record. Five of these walks were given to the apparently elusive MacCracken, Presby third baseman, who was not credited with a single time at bat.

Lloyd Hart, Methodist third baseman, led the hitting parade with two homers out of four attempts. Virden also uncorked his batting power to clout a circuit smash. The Presbies barely escaped forfeiting another game last night as they played the entire tilt with only eight in the lineup.

After the Waldo Dodgers had gone ahead of Commercial Steel, 4 to 1, after the first inning, the Steelers came back to knot the game at 4 runs apiece at the end of the fourth. The score stood that way until the last of the eighth when the Waldoans tallied the deciding run. Sims, Dodger short centerfielder, was the player who touched home plate with the tell-tale run. After he had gotten on base with a hit, he was advanced to second on another bingle by Henry, centerfielder. Miley, left fielder, then hit safely to drive in Sims.

Bob Scott, Commercial third baseman, was the only player on either team to homer. He four-baggered in the second stanza with the sacks vacant.

Score by innings:

Epworth	206 030 0	14	14	1
Presby	211 100 0	4	3	5

Epworth—R. Everly and Reid. Presbyterian—Lashey, Torrance and Bacon.

Com. St.	110 200 00	4	12	0
Waldo	400 000 001	5	9	0

Commercial—Millington and Bigerstaff; Waldo — J. Ward and Smith.

OHIO CORN YIELD ESTIMATE BOOSTED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12—The federal-state crop reporting service boosted its estimate of Ohio's 1943 corn yield to 144,900,000 bushels, 3,450,000 more than a month ago, but indicated today that other crops would be disappointing. Ohio harvested 185,752,000 bushels of corn last year.

"Corn on the whole is rather uneven but it has made very rapid growth during the last 30 days," the service said in basing its estimate on Aug. 1 conditions. "Prospects are the poorest in northwestern Ohio where damage from water has materially reduced the 1943 prospects," the report added.

A bright spot, however, was egg production which last month totaled 224,000,000 a 6 per cent increase over July of last year.

Winter wheat prospects were for 24,816,000 bushels, 69 per cent of the 36,183,000 bushels produced in 1942. "The quality of wheat this year in many areas is quite poor," the report stated.

The condition of soybeans was given as 78 per cent of normal, "which is 11 points below the condition a year ago but is the same as the 10-year, 1932-41 average for August." Despite late plantings, soybeans have grown rapidly the past month, the service noted.

The indicated potato yield was 8,526,000 bushels, compared with a 1942 harvest of 9,180,000 bushels. Sugar beet production was set at 100,000 tons only 17 per cent of last year's 595,000 tons.

Estimated fruit yields were down, except grapes which were expected to produce 20,200 tons, only 2,200 tons under last year's crop.

City Editor's Quick Action Finds Rare Drug for Child

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—A two-year-old girl had a fighting chance for life today because a New York city editor moved swiftly to send a rare drug to her bedside.

The city editor of the New York Journal-American said "city desk" at 3:40 p. m. yesterday as he answered just one of innumerable telephone calls. The distressed caller identified himself as Lawrence J. Malone of Jackson Heights, Queens.

"My little girl is in Lutheran hospital," he told the editor. "The doctors say she has only seven hours to live, unless she gets the new drug penicillin. It is her only hope. The doctors have used sulfa drugs and everything else. I must find someone with enough to help her. Can you help me?"

Five and one-half hours later Patricia Malone's doctor administered the drug.

At 11:30 a. m. today, Dr. Dante Collitti, the physician who administered the drug, reported the little girl was improving.

"She is still living and is slightly improved," the doctor said. "It is difficult to say whether she will pull through, but the next 48 hours will tell the story."

The city editor had put in a call for the U. S. public health service surgeon-general in Washington. He had a canvas made of New York drug firms to learn where Penicillin would be available. Finally his search narrowed down. The call to the surgeon-general's office produced results, and the editor was referred to the E. R. Squibb and Sons research laboratories in New Brunswick, N. J.

Arrangements were made for police of two states to escort the precious shipment to the bedside of the ill girl.

The city editor was Paul Schoenstein.

The last previous attack by U. S. Flying Fortresses based in Britain was on Kassel, German locomotive production center, July 30.

The German radio said the raiders were spotted before reaching the French coast, were intercepted and many heavy air battles were fought above the clouds.

In other operations by the RAF during the night, mines were laid in enemy waters and railway targets in France and the low countries were attacked. One night bomber was reported missing.

German planes retaliated last night in the heaviest raid on Britain in several weeks on an unnamed southwest coast town.

Eight persons were killed and a number were injured.

Marion Co. Golf Tourney Boosted by Y's Men's Club

Measures to step up interest in the county golf tournament, scheduled to start in 10 days, were taken at the weekly meeting of the Y's Men's Service club Wednesday noon at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night.

Some 50 members of the club were issued two tourney entry blanks each and were told to get a foursome to play in the golf tournament, to sell as many blanks as possible. The point was brought out that up to yesterday no golfer had purchased his entry ticket for the county event and that entry deadline is next Wednesday, less than a week away.

Entry blanks were distributed this week to both the Marion Golf and Country Club courses. The Y. M. C. A. also has a plentiful supply on hand. Tickets may be purchased at either course, the Y, or from any member of the Y's Men's club.

The entry fee of $2.50 entitles the golfer to a free practice round at either course in addition to his qualifying round, which also may be shot at either layout. First round play will start at the Mar-O-Del public course Sunday, Aug. 22.

No program was held at the club meeting so that members could devote as much time as possible to discussion of the golf event. However, proposals for new club membership dues and requirements were made and will be acted upon at the next week's meeting.

U. S. Fliers Say Germans Lack Pilots or Nerve

By The Associated Press

AN ADVANCED U. S. AIR BASE IN SICILY Aug. 10 — (Delayed) — Ask these veteran Warhawk pilots of the U. S. ninth air force what's become of the German air force in the Mediterranean, and you'll probably get this quick reply:

"They either just don't want to fight or else they lack pilots."

Recent experiences have indicated to the fliers of the P-40 group commanded by 28-year-old Col. Arthur G. Salisbury of Sedalia, Mo., that the Germans have planes lying idle for no other apparent reason.

Salisbury's men have a recent notable case to illustrate their contention. After the capture of Comiso airdrome they found an ME-108 in perfect condition and decided to fly it to their own field.

"It had plenty of gas and oil and all the instruments were in it," related Capt. Gilbert O. Wymond of Louisville, Ky. "But just when we were ready to start it we heard a chirping and in the barrel of one of its cannon we found some week-old sparrows."

GALION—Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Malone entertained their club associates Wednesday with cards as the diversion.

Phillies Extend Winning Streak

Take Six in Row To Match Accomplishments Under Harris.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies simply won't allow any dust to collect on that adjective "phenomenal" which for a while it seemed would never be needed again.

The Phillies returned home yesterday for their first appearance in Shibe park under the management of Fat Old Freddy Fitzsimmons and promptly swept a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates to extend their present winning streak to six games—matching their best string under the pilfering of capable Bucky Harris.

The bargain bill started at 10:30 a. m. and attracted 11,129 fans, a remarkable turnout that was enough to capture the immediate attention of baseball men. The Phillies beat Truett (Rip) Sewell, the leading pitcher of the year, 2-1 in the first game and followed through with a 2-0 shutout in the second.

The setbacks for the Pirates enabled Cincinnati to move into a tie for second even though the Reds were beaten 5-2 at Brooklyn.

New York's woeful Giants turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 on two home runs by Nick Witek.

The Chicago Cubs divided a doubleheader at Boston. Hiram Bithorn pitched a 3-0 shutout for the Cubs in the first game, but the Braves came back to win the nightcap 6-2.

In the American league the New York Yankees were walloped hard for the second straight day by the St. Louis Browns, 9-1. The only blow off Steve Sundra was Charley Keller's 18th home run.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout pitched five-hit ball as Detroit downed the Washington Senators 3-2 with the help of Rudy York's 19th home run.

Cleveland captured a twilight slugging session from the Philadelphia Athletics 10-5. And then bagged a pitching battle 2-1 in the night game.

Joe Dobson shut out the White Sox 10-0 while his Boston Red Sox teammates collected 16 hits and clustered seven runs in the eighth inning.

* * *

BROOKLYN, Aug. 12—Seems just now that the Cincinnati Reds can do no wrong.

Even though they lost yesterday to the fading Brooklyn Dodgers, second place in the National league because the Pittsburgh Pirates lost a twin bill to Philadelphia.

Johnny Vander Meer is manager Bill McKechnie's nomination to consolidate the second place hold to today's game. Kirby Higbe is the Dodger pitcher.

Ray Starr for the Reds and Whit Wyatt for the Dodgers had a pitchers' battle for six innings, with a home run by Eric Tipton in the sixth providing the only score. In the seventh the Dodgers opened up on Starr and scored all five of their runs before Joe Beggs could stop matters.

HAEGG WINS AGAIN IN LAST U. S. RACE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug 12—Having written two new American records into track and field annals in the course of chalking up eight successive victories in a coast to coast tour, Sweden's Gunder Haegg is ready to return home and renew his duels with Arne Andersson—the Swedish school teacher who lowered the international mile mark to 4:02.6 while Gunder was whipping this country's best.

Haegg completed his all victorious United States campaign last night by again taking the measure of Gil Dodds, Boston divinity student and Bill Hulse, New York chemist, in a mile race at Randall's island.

The singe was all set for what Amateur Athletic Union officials hoped would be Haegg's greatest performance but the time of 4:08.9 was somewhat of a disappointment to the estimated crowd of 5,000. Last night's gate was expected to bring the receipts of Haegg's tour to $130,000—all of which goes to the army air force fund. Although time was one and six tenths seconds off the American record Haegg hung up in beating the same in Boston, the race was one of the most thrilling as the flying Swede registered by two yards over Dodds with Hulse another three yards back. Dodds was clocked in 4:07.2 and Hulse in 4:08.2.

The Boys Do Only Fair Job Fooling Boss

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., Aug 12—One of the toughest jobs these sports days is to try to convince the boss you are very, very busy, when there is absolutely nothing to do.

We've been trying it—without too much success—and from what's appearing in some of the state's sports columns, the other writers are trying it, too. You'll find a little bit of everything in the sports pillars these days—from circle to worse.

For instance:

Upon reading of trick-shot artist Joe Kirkwood's opinion that the hardest shot in golf is a straight ball, Rex Hess of the Mansfield News-Journal broke forth with:

Once I had a drive like that,
Three hundred yards and more;
Someone poked me in the slats,
"Wake up, old man, you snore!"

At Cincinnati, Nixson Denton of the Times-Star observed that frying chickens are becoming scarce, "a number of farmer friends having reported that relatives from town failed to show up just before dinner time Sunday." Denton also gave vent to the opinion that Joe Meyer, Cincinnati university's smart football coach, was never smarter than when he refused to run for the Queen City council.

"Imagine," Nixson asks you to imagine, "a man who has called plays for 30 years having the plays called for him."

John H. Hanlon of the Alliance Review, although denying he ever sought rank as an authority of feminine pulchritude (John and I are the only sports editors ever to deny such a thing) served as a judge at a bathing beauty contest last week.

"And," John chuckled, "the boss thought I was working."

Tom Bolger of the Toledo Times came up with a column featuring such this and that us: "In the event your Aunt Agatha asks, it costs $11 to make a saliva test of a race horse: Freddie Adden, Brooklyn fighter, was rejected by the Army when doctors found he had seven toes on one foot; and if you want to make $13 honest dollars in three minutes, you can get it from Beau Jack—that's what he pays his sparring partners."

Tom also disclosed that the exclusive Baltusrol golf club in New Jersey has added 101 sheep to the menagerie, making a total of 185 on the plush layout—so the sports situation must not be too strenuous along the Maumee, either.

Down at Portsmouth, Pete Minego of the Times couldn't find much sports to write about, so his usual column on athletics was constructed around a little ditty on the campaign in Sicily entitled:

"They'll be comin' around the mountain when they come, Mussolini!

Hope the boss was watching while we clipped and copied all that stuff. Maybe he'll think we were working, too!

Volo Song Wins Hambletonian

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 — Volo Song, the $5,000 bargain-son of Volomite, won the Hambletonian and a bankroll of $23,263.92 yesterday by taking two out of three heats. But in the heat he didn't win, he trotted the fastest mile in the 1-year history of the corn-tassel derby—and it doesn't count.

This was in the first one-mile whirl around the Empire City track. Worthy Boy, the first Hambletonian starter for Mrs. James B. Johnson, Jr., of Rochester, Mich., won the dash in the track record trotting time of 2:02½—a mark Volo Song duplicated in knocking off the second heat, before coming back to waltz home with the third in 2:06.

But in that opening spin, Volo Song broke stride just at the start. Before Driver Ben White could get him settled down the rest of the field was so far in front, Volo looked like an early arrival for the next race. He took out after the others, made up more than ten lengths and hit the wire in third place, only a length and a half back.

Since the winner was caught in 2:02½, Volo must have zipped a lot faster. No official bothered to put the clock on him, but Trainer-Driver White apparently carries his own stop-watch and word reached the press box later that Ben's timepiece showed Volo had ripped off the eight furlongs in 2:00½.

This is one full second faster than the Hambletonian mile mark, chalked up back in '37 by Shirley Hanover.

Volo Song's triumph marked the second straight Hambletonian win for Bill Strang, the warehouseman from Flatbush. As for 70-year-old Trainer-Driver White, he is practically in a rut, for the victory was his fourth Hambletonian jackpot, a record no other pilot can touch.

Financially, it was a fancy day. The crowd of 12,407 tossed $353,440 into the mutuels for a new Hambletonian-day high.

Petrich with 77 Leads Qualifiers at Country Club

Herb Petrich, with a three-over-par 77, leads 21 Country club golfers who have turned in scores for the combined qualifier of two annual club events, the Country club championship and the President's handicap tournament.

Petrich, who also was medalist in qualifying for the vice president's tourney with 78, got together nines of 39 and 37. John Dugan ranks next to him with 80. He went out in 40 and came back in the same number.

Country club linksmen may use the same qualifying score for both the club championship and the president's event. Qualifying deadline for both is midnight Sunday. Match play for the two tourneys will start some time the next week. Since it is near the end of the regular club golfing season, Bill Schimmel, Country club tournament chairman, has scheduled play for both annual events to run concurrently.

The president's handicap tourney will be run in only one bracket while the club championship will probably be divided into two flights since only a few more members are expected to qualify.

Other qualifying marks for both tourneys posted at the Country club recently are: J. G. Bray 39-44—83; E. G. Haight, 42-45—87—E. C. Dee 42-39—81; Dale Rose 41-41—82; Charles Sherer 46-41—87; Jack Weiss 43-42—85; B. H. Buettin 41-42—83; R. C. FOUR MAKE CLEAN SWEEPS IN REGATTA

By The Associated Press

PUT-IN-BAY, O., Aug. 12—Four of the five trophy winners in the major divisions of the annual Interlake Yachting association regatta sailed to victory with brooms flying from their main halyards, indicating clean sweeps in all heats of the race.

Officially closing yesterday, the regatta's final event is set today, a deep water homeward bound run for a special cup.

Only the Cleveland Yacht club's Puffin, skippered by Commodore Alex Winton, failed to take a sweep in its division, winning the R class Northrup trophy on points. Puffin was first in Monday and Tuesday's legs, but ran second yesterday to Russell Moore's LaSalle of Toledo, which took second point honors.

In the auxiliary sloop division, Wilfred Gmeiner of Detroit sailed his Apache to a straight victory over Clevelander Richard Boswick's Falcon II.

William Birkhold's Nimrod of Cleveland won all honors in the universal class, and Commodore Al Wakefield's Dickery, of the Vermillion yacht club, placed first in the star class.

Huber and Cooler Play Tonight

The season's largest crowd is expected to watch the city's two softball titans, Universal Cooler and Huber battle for the Industrial league championship at Lincoln park tonight. Starting time will be the usual 6:30.

Of course, the principal prize at stake will be the Industrial crown but in addition, the two contestants will be out to settle an old score which started last season.

S. W. O. C. No. 11949, Marion Steam Shovel, copped the Industrial championship last year. Cooler and Huber were figured as "also-rans" but they carried on a special struggle of their own for second place in the Industrial circuit. Universal, in its first year of softball in Marion, finally edged the Threshers for runner-up slot, but by only a half game. Cooler had 10 wins and four defeats while Huber won nine and also lost four tilts.

RIDES SIX WINNERS

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 12—Franklin Sheaffer rode six winners at Fort Steuben Jockey club yesterday, finishing out front in every race except the first and final events, when he came in fourth and last, respectively.

Tonight's game, if it follows the pattern of past Cooler-Huber clashes, will be one of the thrills of the year.

The Threshers might be the favorites after last night's Industrial and Commercial games. Cooler was trumped by Coca-Cola, for the second time this year, 8 to 6 while Huber maintained its undefeated state against Commercial league teams by trimming the Waldo Dodgers, 14 to 6.

However, it must be remembered that the Coke team sported much more formidable record than the Dodgers, who have won only one contest this year. Huber should have beaten the Waldo nine by a much more decisive score than they did, softball observers say, for that very reason. Cooler, on the other hand, was given only a slight edge, if any, over the strong Commercial loop Cokes.

Yet, Waldo has displayed some power and has played "heads-up" ball in its last two games and at any time this summer. Cooler had to go nine innings to finally top the Dodgers, 2 to 1, last Thursday night.

All these conflicting facts only confuse a fan who wants to pick a winner in tonight's game even more than even. Manager Maddy Conkle of Huber and Bill Bartsch of Universal Cooler are probably just as puzzled as the fans as to the outcome tonight, as are the ten players who will start for each team.

INDIANS DOING OK IN STADIUM GAMES

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12—The Cleveland Indians claim they can't win in the sprawling acres of Municipal stadium but the record book and a double header victory over the Philadelphia Athletics today disproves that contention.

The Tribesmen have won 19 games and lost 14 at the lakefront arena and have broken even in 16 contests in the smaller confines of League park. They also argue many of the lazy flies hit in the stadium would be home runs in League park but the only three round trippers they have collected this year were produced in the city owned ball park.

The latest stadium victories and the Indians' third homer of the campaign were registered yesterday when they defeated the Athletics 10 to 5 and 2 to 1 in a twi-night program. The double triumph moved the Redskins into a third place tie with Detroit's Tigers, only a game behind the second place Washington Nationals.

TYPHOID CARRIER BLAMED

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 12—State Health Director R. H. Markwith today attributed 35 of Toledo's 81 recent typhoid cases to baked beans, prepared by a typhoid carrier in a Toledo wholesale food establishment. Markwith reported the woman food handler agreed to stop preparing food outside her home.

Messmore's 788 High in Classic

Floyd Messmore, recently appointed manager of the Marion Recreation Center bowling lanes, posted high game in the weekly summer singles classic on the Marion alleys Tuesday night with a four-game series of 788. Herb Petrich rolled top single game of 207.

Petrich also finished second in the series kegling with 734. Joe Schnitzler wound up third with 727. Other four-game series in the classic included: Snyder 710, Anderson 708, Luse, 702, Chapman 692, Shull 691; DeBolt 639, Pinkerman 631, Johnson 612, and Maag 595.

Messmore was the lone bowler to hang up more than one 200 mark. He rolled 202 and 203. Shull rapped out a 201 count while Chapman hit 204.

This marks the second time Messmore has copped the singles classic. On May 25, the second week of the event for the '43 summer season, he was victorious with a 789 series.

BOARD MAPS OHIO POST-WAR PROGRAM

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Aug. 12—Ohio's post - war program commission must be prepared to help provide jobs for a decade after the war, its chairman, Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, said today.

A survey of the commission showed its members felt plans should be made now to assist in meeting these major problems relating to post-war employment:

Providing jobs both for returning soldiers and civilians switching from war to peacetime employment;

Establishing program of necessary public works projects, and aiding business in the switchover from war to peace production.

"We were not prepared for war but we must be prepared for peace," was the summation of the commission's purpose as expressed by Herbert.

"The first obligation of the commission is to help business to furnish the jobs," Herbert declared, "but the state and every political subdivision should be prepared to start public construction immediately with the war's end to take up the slack while industry is converting from war to peacetime production."

The lieutenant governor believes the commission may be able to give suggestions for developing a longtime program that "will even meet the backwash after eight or 10 years."

$100,000 Expansion Program Under Way at Old Fort Mills

New Feed Mill To Be Installed and Plant Improvements Made; 30,000 Pounds of Oil Extracted Daily.

A $100,000 expansion program is under way at Old Fort Mills, Louis Tarlet, plant manager, has announced.

A new feed mill is to be installed in the near future, along with a building for maintenance and repair with shower and toilet facilities for the employes, a new railroad siding, and other minor improvements. The elevators are being remodeled and obsolete machinery is being replaced with new. Safety devices have been installed to prevent fires.

The plant is now busy processing soybeans, Mr. Tarlet said. When the new feed mill is installed by the first of December, the company will resume the manufacture of commercial mixed feed. The capacity of the new feed mill will be approximately 300 tons a day.

About a million and a quarter bushels of soybeans have been processed this year by Old Fort Mills, Mr. Tarlet reported, and 250,000 bushels are now in storage. This amount will be enough to keep the plant busy until the new crop comes in around the first of October.

Thirty-thousand pounds of oil are extracted daily from soybeans and most of it is sent to Columbus for use in margarine manufacture he said. Soap is also made from soybean oil. With wartime rationing and scarcity of products, more and more uses are being found for the soybean.

A plant in Decatur, O., Mr. Tarlet said, has just received government permission to erect a new factory to manufacture soybean flour for human consumption. This factory will produce 150 tons of flour per day. The product is not only used as flour, but is one of the chief components in the making of some candy. A breakfast food is being made from soybeans which is seldom used for its original purpose, but is bought by bakeries which use it on breakfast rolls as a nut substitute.

Soybean Storage Bins Rapidly Being Emptied

Officials of the Commodity Credit corporation of the Agricultural Conservation association report that of the 67,000 bushels of soybeans stored in Marion county for the past year, all have been moved out with the exception of 3,000 bushels, which are to be shipped shortly.

Bin sites where the beans were stored are situated in Morral, Caledonia, Waldo, Prospect, La-Rue and Marion. Instructions as to what to do with the storage buildings have not yet been received.

Officials say that approximately 42,000 acres in Marion county have been planted with soybeans this year, 10 per cent more than last year. The yield per acre in 1942 was 22 bushels.

The beans are shipped to various processors throughout the country, some of them going to the local processing plant, Old Fort Mills.

1,200 AT PLEASANT SCHOOL BAND EVENT

$340 Raised To Purchase New Uniforms, Instruments.

The anniversary festival of Pleasant Twp. High school band was reported to be a success, officials announcing that almost 1,200 persons attended the celebration last evening at the school. Serving started about 5:30 p. m. under the direction of the Pleasant Band Parents' association. The entire menu was contributed by members of the community. Almost every person in the township contributed in some way either with food or financial support.

Patriotic numbers and marches were played by the band and the three majorettes were a feature of the program. A field drill was presented on the athletic grounds. The band, which was organized last year, has made several public appearances under the direction of Milton Baker, and will play again this year at the Marion County Fair. The fete was arranged to raise enough money to purchase new uniforms and musical instruments.

Officers of the Band Parents' association are C. M. Gorby, president, Mrs. Walter Mautz, secretary and treasurer, Harley Mayers, vice president and Mrs. Glenn Hawk, reporter. They reported that approximately $340 were realized from the evening and that the funds will be more than enough to make the necessary purchases.

OWI PRESSURE ON RADIO NEWS CHARGED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 — A charge that the office of war information had sought to have radio stations "propagandize" OWI's own interpretation of the Atlantic charter was leveled at the agency's director today by Commentator Elmer Davis, Jr.

Lewis, who made the charge on the air, said he had received "hundreds of letters and telegrams" since his broadcast on the matter.

Asserting he had no quarrel with the Atlantic charter, Lewis contended that OWI "wanted us to propagandize  their own interpretation of it." He said he had received an OWI memorandum calling attention to the fact that next September would be the second anniversary of the charter, and asking for data on broadcast time devoted to the occasion.

With respect to OWI's alleged "interpretation," the commentator stated:

"They said it had been approved formally by all allied nations. That is not true. And it guaranteed to every man in every country 'freedom from want and fear.' The Atlantic charter didn't say any such thing. ***

"I resented and refused to go along with attempts of OWI to tell me I have to propagandize people who listen to me on a daily and to try to put on a super radio drive to sell the public on an idea that the Atlantic charter is five to ten times more than what President Roosevelt has said it is, or what its own words say."

It was his contention that "the country has ratified formally" the charter.

RYE PRICES DROP TO SEASONAL LOWS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 — Rye dropped to new seasonal lows in late trading today, carrying wheat and oats below the previous session's close, on renewed selling by houses with eastern connections. Losses in rye ran to about 2 cents at one time.

Action of the war food administration in removing corn marketing restrictions created a nervous undertone in all pits. The Commodity Credit Corporation announced it was making corn available for livestock feeding purposes. This, traders said, would curtail the immediate feed demand for other grains.

Son of Cleveland Official Is Found Severely Beaten

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12—Severely beaten and unable to walk, nine-year-old Jack Buchanan, son of City Food Inspector E. Buchanan, was found soon after noon today in a wooded section of suburban Westlake village.

The boy, apparently abducted after leaving his Lakewood home to go to a park in the suburb late yesterday, was taken to a hospital. His parents first expressed fear their son had been kidnaped after receiving two mysterious telephone calls last night.

Found under a clump of trees, the child wailed, "I can't walk, will you please carry me?" Police searching for the boy carried him the distraught father sat. Jack the distraught father sat. Jack was bruised severely on one shoulder and his chin.

The boy's mother said he had two bus tickets and 12 cents when he left alone for Lakewood park yesterday. Some time later, she reported, an anonymous telephone caller told her:

"If you want your kid, take this down. Follow Detroit avenue out to Clague road to the first cottage on the west side of the road. If you want him, come and get him quick. They have given him the works, but he will be all right."

Police found no one in the cottage, but the child was found near Clague and Lake roads, in the vicinity of the cottage.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"I WISH I knew the answer to that one," Dicky said. "I can't imagine why she wanted Olga to go into her room, and I don't like puzzles."

"Of course," I ventured, "some members of the gang to which she belongs would like very much to get their hands on Olga, and Olga, too."

"Don't I know that?" he demanded. "But how she could expect to pull anything here in a hotel daylight, I can't imagine. There's one thing I'm going to find out, though."

He went to the telephone, spoke briskly into it, listened for a reply, then hung up the receiver quickly, and turned to me.

"She's gone from the hotel, but she hasn't checked out," he said. "That means she's coming back. Hurry! Get your keys ready."

I obeyed him, and opened the door of 1720, Ruth's room, while he dashed to the elevator, signaled it, and then spoke to the operator.

"If she comes back," he said when he returned, "the operator will see to it that she doesn't get off at this floor until my man downstairs has a chance to telephone me. So come on! We're going to do a plain and fancy bit of burgling."

I followed him into the room and looked around. The bed was rumpled, where the "Wilderness Woman" had taken her nap until she was disturbed by Milner's message bidding her search for me.

On the dresser were strewn various cosmetics, and a hair brush, comb, and clothes brush. But a look into the dresser drawers disclosed that they were empty, and there was no clothing hanging in the clothes closet.

Standing away back into the closet, however, was a modish overnight bag, which Dicky hauled out into the sunlight, and examined closely.

Calls House Detective

"Locked!" he mourned, "and no doubt she has the key with her, but I can fix that!"

He stepped to the telephone and gave an order. In less than five minutes, a house detective was in the room with us.

"Can you open this," Dicky asked, "without breaking the lock, and so that nobody will guess it's been opened?"

The detective held out his hand for the bag.

"Let me look at it," he said noncommittally, but in another minute added, "Can do."

Taking a bunch of keys from his pocket, he selected one, opened the bag, snapped it shut again, and then opened it once more.

"All you'll have to do when you're finished," he said, "is to snap it shut again. If you're sure it's empty, I'll be the waiter."

I noted that he said carefully "empty" as he backed down the hall, and to my gaze fell a suitcase lurking on the bed.

"You're the goods!" he said with a grin. "Thanks a million, and I'll be mighty careful."

"Send your bill with the hotel if she turns out it's been opened," the detective said, as a side glance at me conveyed his conviction that a chambermaid should not share the secret.

"She won't find out," Dicky said confidently. "And if she does, she won't dare bring the subject up. And this woman"—he indicated me—"is one of our own."

"Glad to hear that," the man replied. "Is there anything more you want of me?"

"Not now," Dicky told him. "I may need you later."

"I'll be on deck," the detective replied, and then he went away.

Dicky closed the door after him and grinned broadly at me.

"I didn't see any use broadcasting the fact that you are my newly-wedded wife," he said. "But of course, if you wish me to make an honest woman out of you—"

"I think I'll survive," I told him, laughing. "But what do you expect to find in that bag?"

"Allah alone knows. But I'm going to have a good look. Here, I'll spread it out to its fullest width, and you fix the position of the things in that memory of yours. Then I'll be able to put them back properly. And pull my handkerchief out of my pocket. There, thanks! Now we're ready."

He lifted several articles out of the bag—a pair of bedroom slippers and a gossamerlike negligee—the usual thing for an overnight stay. Memorizing their position in the bag, I laid them out upon the bed and turned to find him scrutinizing the bottom of the bag.

"See anything queer about this?" he asked.

"It's an expensive bag," I said slowly, "and I seem to remember an advertisement from the shop whose label this bears."

"Well, what about it?" my husband pressed me impatiently, as I paused.

"I'm not sure," I said, "but I think you'll find there's a false bottom there."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Food Parley

"I MET a fellow at a party the other day who certainly made some positive statements," said my old friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs, when he drifted into my office one afternoon.

"Yes, he unquestionably had a firm grasp on the situation. He talked in an even tone of great emphasis just as if we had been a regiment under his command and he was telling us where we got off. I can't remember ever to have met a man to whom I took such an instant and deep-seated dislike.

"It appears he was full of eggs—that was his subject, eggs. He had just retired from the life insurance business and had taken up raising chickens. Last year was his first year at it—he has raised 3,000. But was he an expert—boy!

"He said the egg outlook is very serious. The egg market is getting deleted and there are no eggs going into storage of the kind we have been using storage eggs—I forget which—and storage eggs are what the American people eat all winter and this winter there aren't going to be any storage eggs and we are going to run out of luck on eggs.

"I got up to draw a picture of the entire food supply for the winter. It looked like one of those illustrations for Dante's 'Inferno.' According to this fellow we are in for a bad time, and he seemed to be getting quite a lot of personal satisfaction out of it.

"Didn't it worry you?" I asked.

"Why—no—it didn't as much as it might, I guess. You see, there's one thing this fellow hadn't seemed to have taken into his calculations. Which is that next year is an election year. As you know, I am neither a violent foe or friend of the New Deal. But there is one thing that's got to be said for them—they are awful nice about getting out plenty of votes for their favorite candidates.

"It wouldn't appear likely that a starving electorate would turn out in great numbers at the polls and vote for the people who were in charge of starving them, would it? No, I kind of believe things will be rigged so that the United States will get enough food, especially next year.

"Though there is one bunch who might have to do a little extra scratching next year if our food supply is short."

"Who is that?" I asked.

Dr. Gibbs bent to my ear and whispered, spelling it out. "The R-O-O-S-H-I-A-N-S. And the C-H-I-N-E-S-E. And the S-P-A-N-I-S-H.

"Also over here," and he whispered again "the R-O-O-S-H-I-A-N-S. And the C-H-I-N-E-S-E. And the S-P-A-N-I-S-H.

"Besides that, maybe our little brothers, the Arabs and nomads.

"This fellow wound up by smiling a very self-satisfied smile and saying, 'I know one person who won't goin' to be without eggs next year.'

"I said, 'I know several, unless you've got a machine gun—your neighbors. And I will lead the attacking party.'"
